Benedictine Hospital Ceremony Held for Start of New Project

Msgr. Drury Starts Hospital Wing

At ceremonies on Wednesday afternoon, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Martin J. Drury, president of the Benedictine Hospital, turns first shovelful of soil starting excavation for the new wing to be added to the institution. (Freeman Photo)

New Wing Will Cost $1,725,000; Will Raise $450,000 Toward Cost

Ground was broken and blessed for the $1,725,000 addition to the Benedictine Hospital on the site of the new structure to the south side of the present building yesterday afternoon.

Msgr. Martin J. Drury, president of the hospital's board of managers, and others mentioned the need for raising $450,000 toward the cost, and Dr. William S. Bush, chief of the hospital staff, signaled the expansion program as a move toward a "real medical center" that could be a "model for Main street U.S.A."

Msgr. Drury was the first to use the shovel in breaking ground and was followed by Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk and Sister Bernice, superintendent of the hospital.

The program included addresses by Msgr. Drury, County Judge John M. Cashin, who spoke in behalf of State Senate Majority Leader Arthur H. Wicks; Mayor Newkirk; Joseph E. Honig, representing friends of the hospital; Dr. Bush; George F. Kaufman, chairman of the 1945 fund-raising campaign, and Dr. John J. Bourke, executive director of the New York State Hospital Survey & Planning Commission.

Dr. John F. Larkin, secretary of the executive board, was master of ceremonies. The ground was blessed by the Rev. Austin V. Carey, hospital chaplain.

Dr. Bourke backed Dr. Bush in the belief that Kingston with its plans to expand hospital facilities plus its laboratory and recently opened tumor clinic, is on its way to becoming a small community medical center.

Cashin Gives Talk

Judge Cashin stressed the importance of the work of Sister Bernice and the other Sisters at the hospital and said the ground breaking was the beginning of their dreams come true. It was fulfillment also of the dreams of the executive committee, the board and of the staff, he said.

The "faith and determination" of Sister Bernice, he stressed, contributed largely to realization of the dream. The work of all the Sisters through nearly a half century, he added, built toward realization of the dream, "and I know the Sisters will continue their good work."

The judge said if he were to sum up the service and work of all concerned for a slogan over the door of the new structure it would be in three words: "Service to the community."

250 Hear Housing Project Discussed

President Discounts Any Control

Wage, Price, Manpower Limitations to Come, if They Do, as Part of Mobilization

Steps Are Taken

Traitors, Saboteurs Are to Be Dealt With, He Declares

Washington, July 27 (AP)—President Truman said today he sees no necessity now for wage, price and manpower controls.

He told a news conference that if they come they will come together as part of all-out mobilization.

Mr. Truman's comments came in response to questions about the proposal from Bernard M. Baruch for an immediate "ceiling on everything."

Baruch gave his views to Congress yesterday. The lawmakers themselves appeared divided on his proposal with most members apparently against any all-out mobilization right now. There were others, however, who called for full-scale economic mobilization with consumer rationing and wage-price controls.

President Truman also told his news conference:

To Handle Traitors

1 Steps are in the making to deal with any traitors or saboteurs in the present emergency. Those steps will not infringe on the Bill of Rights, he added.

2 The State and Defense Departments are working on proposals for increased military aid to European allies. He said these proposals will be presented to Congress before it adjourns.

3 He did not want to make any comment now on peace prospects, that it would be better to wait for a few more developments. A reporter had recalled that only a couple of months ago the president had said the outlook for peace was better than it had been at any time since 1945. The newsman asked if the president still felt that way.

On the question of wage and price controls, Mr. Truman said he thought his economic message to Congress had covered that. He said then he would not hesitate to ask for them if he thought they were needed.

'News to Him'

A reporter said there were rumors around Washington that

Arguments Given in Support and Against Plan for Homes

Public housing stirred familiar controversy when it came up for airing in the city hall last night for the second time in slightly more than a year.

Arguments for veterans and local labor interest were met with claims that the 100-unit, $1,181,500 project proposed for the Flatbush avenue area, would be costly to taxpayers, but the hearing was a smaller version of the 1949 session.

It reached a noisy climax similar to that of last year when James E. Martin, 12th Ward supervisor, again got in difficulty with the chair on a question of procedure. Last year Martin, as 12th Ward alderman spoke largely in behalf of residents of his ward who opposed a proposed 12th Ward site and last night he hit at the project in general.

The hearing last night conducted by Alderman Abram D. Relyea, chairman of the Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council, attracted a crowd estimated at 250 and last year the crowd nearly filled the municipal auditorium to where it was adjourned.

Cites Law Wages

Several of the longer talks were by members of the Kingston Taxpayers League and one of the longest supporting the project was by George E. Yerry, business agent of the Kingston Metal Trades Council and member of the Kingston Housing Authority, who cited the low wage scale in the city.

W. J. Rider, president of the Kingston Taxpayers League, held that the project would mean that "100 favored families would live cheaply at the expense of other taxpayers." The project, he held, would be a "monument to political corruption."

Albert J. Melville, president of the newly formed Progressive Taxpayer and Rent Payers Association, next speaker, contended that the average man on the street knows that the city needs housing, for veterans and otherwise, and the argument went along those lines with other speakers from these on.

No Links in Organizations

Rider said he did not want his organization mistaken for the one "formed last night," and he held that this country was fortunate in its policy of fighting for rights and principles.

The housing issue here, he contended, has been voted down twice, and he held that bringing it up again amounted to "taxation without representation."

Thus he said looked like "a political debt being paid."

Melville referred to a pamphlet passed out before the hearing started which held that "subsidized political housing" amounted to socialism, and said he remembered when the same was said about social security.

Governor Dewey, of this state, and President Truman, Melville said, have had their parts to play in public housing, and he added: "I dare say you cannot accuse them of corruption in politics," for the part they played.

Martin, who said he spoke last night as an individual, had talked against the proposal at some length when Chairman Relyea reminded him that he had used the allotted time of "from three to five"

Big Welcome for Volunteers

This is a sample of the way business, fraternal and civic groups are welcoming visiting firemen here to attend the three-day convention of the Ulster County Volunteers Association. It starts tonight and winds up Saturday afternoon with a big parade that will travel the length of Broadway, starting downtown. (Freeman Photo)

Firemen's Parade Will Have Three Divisions in Line

Will Cover Full Length of Broadway; to Start at 2 p. m., Downtown

Orders announced today by Chief Joseph L. Murphy revealed that there will be three divisions to Saturday afternoon's parade, concluding feature of the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's convention here.

The convention, which opens tonight is expected to draw thousands from all sections of the county and other nearby areas.

Murphy, who has acted as grand marshal of parades for more than a quarter century, hinted that those lining the curb for this year's procession of volunteers will see one of the best ever held here.

The chief urged that all companies be in positions at 1.30 p. m., ready to march from their formation points downtown at 2 o'clock. Companies arriving late will fall in at the rear of the last division. The reviewing stand will be in front of the city hall.

Parade orders are as follows:

Artillery Pounds Red Divisions

Swarms of Planes Fly Over Concentrations in Effort to Smash Lines Near Yongdong

Chief Is Confident

General Expects Some Heartaches, Is Sure of Ultimate Victory

Tokyo, July 27 (AP)—General MacArthur flew to the battlefield again today as Korean Reds aimed a massive force at the center of American lines apparently trying for a decisive breakthrough.

Associated Press Correspondent William R. Moore reported three large columns were concentrating east of Yongdong in front of the U. S. First Cavalry.

A spokesman at General MacArthur's headquarters in Tokyo said two of the Reds three battalions—the second and third—are massed in that sector.

From a forward post with the First Cavalry, Moore reported American artillery has opened a thundering bombardment of Communist Infantry concentrations.

The air force sent swarms of jets and Mustangs over the area dropping rockets into Red lines and pouring fire into the advancing troops.

Fifteen miles northeast of Yongdong at Meromyon, the 24th Regimental Combat Team, the only Negro combat unit identified in the Korean campaign, beat off a Communist attack late yesterday. The combat team, attached to the U. S. 25th Division, is in the defense line that swings north-eastward of Yongdong.

South Koreans Attack

To the east in the 200 mile battlefield arm South Koreans attacked the Reds. At Hamhung they drove forward seven miles aided by American planes. On the east coast, they advanced on Yongdok with land artillery and naval guns supporting them.

Between the planes and South Koreans using bazookas, six enemy tanks were knocked out in the hot action, which may be the prelude to what appears to be the biggest battle of the Korean war.

A curtain of U. S. artillery fire met the attacking Reds, who made the city of Hamhung a line on the road to Pusan. U. S. supply port on the southeast coast 90 miles from Yongdong.

There had been no report from the Hamhung area in Red held southwest Korea, where fresh U. S. troops were described as ready to make the city once it stops burning.

Planes set it afire yesterday. A Communist radio broadcast from Pyongyang capital of North Korea, claimed a U. S. warship was sunk off Yosu, in southern Korea by coastal batteries. The radio said the Reds captured Yosu inflicting more casualties on the defenders of the two cities.

MacArthur Is Confident

At a conference with his top generals in Korea, General MacArthur, the United Nations commander, discussed the looming battle situation.

"That we will have new heartaches and new setbacks is inherent in the situation," he said, "but I was never more confident of victory—ultimate victory—in my life than I am now."

With the battle setting the central front aflame again, MacArthur made his second flying visit of the war to Korea. As on the first June 29—he was accompanied by key staff officers.

He conferred with Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker, commander of the U. S. Eighth Army, and other top men directing the action in Korea.

Except for the fresh Red eruption on the central front, North Korean pushes were stalled or (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Albany, July 27—Power facilities at the Institute for Male Defective Delinquents, Napanoch, will soon be improved by the construction of a new power plant, Building No. 50. Low bids totaling $720,878 were received today for this work. Bertram D. Tallamy, State Superintendent of Public Works, announced that a total of 19 bids were received on the four contracts comprising this project. Anglo Statement Of Troop Help Is Made at Dark Hour

More Fighting Help Needed to Bolster American Troops Worn to Exhaustion

By ELTON C. FAY (A.P. Military Reporter)

Washington, July 27 (AP)—An announcement that Britain is sending, and other United Nations countries may send, ground troops to Korea comes in one of the darkest hours of American military history.

What American military men want now are more combat-ready troops—quickly, urgently. How quickly? There are no firm estimates now, but the next two or three weeks can be highly critical.

United States army troops fighting the Red invaders of the republic of Korea do not yet have their backs to the wall—but the room is getting alarmingly small.

In the strategy of trading space for time, they are running low on both commodities.

The British government's announcement that it is sending to Korea a regular army combat group including artillery and armor, reached Washington at a time when Pentagon officials were growing increasingly concerned about help from United Nations members.

Reinforcements on Way

Reinforcements from the United States are on the way—2nd Army Division troops, First Marine Division fighters—but some Pentagon officials make it plain this can't be enough.

More fighting manpower is needed not only to bolster the battered American army troops and help them hold the diminishing perimeter, but to allow soldiers exhausted by weeks of unrelieved combat to rest.

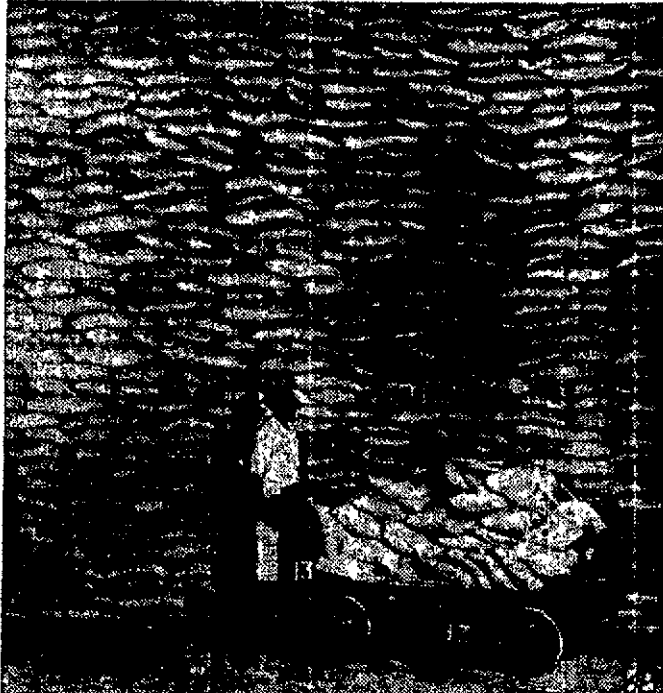

Pentagon leaders prefer that any troop units contributed to the United Nations campaign in Korea be in organizations of not less than 1,000 men, trained, equipped and supplied for initial fighting.

Later, the Far East command of the United States can provide the supplies, but it is desired that when ground forces land in the war zone they be ready to go into action quickly with their own equipment and field supplies.

Four Sentenced In Maybrook Case

Brooklynites, 21, Given 10-25-Year Terms in Sing Sing

Newburgh, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Four 21-year-old Brooklynites were sentenced today to 10-to-25 year terms in Sing Sing prison for their attempted holdup of the Maybrook, N. Y., National Bank. The March 2 heikup attempt was followed by Charles A. Cielit, 59-year-old cashier of the bank, who told the gunmen "go to hell" and turned on the tear gas. The four fled after firing two shots into the bullet-proof glass cashier's window.

Sentenced today were Frank Mallatone, 21; Paul DeFloro, 21; William Teller, 21, and Thomas Stokes, 21. Each pleaded guilty to a charge of attempted first degree robbery and an additional grand larceny charge in connection with the theft of the car they used.

"If they had carried out their plan as deliberately and as willfully as they intended," said Orange County Judge Raphael A. Egan in pronouncing sentence, "they would have killed the cashier and each would be guilty of murder."

Mackerel Makes Comeback

Terminal Island, Calif. (AP)—A 5-pound Monterey Spanish mackerel has been landed here after a game fight. This is news because this fish, once an important commercial type on the west coast, disappeared completely in 1890. It was not until 1927 that it was seen again. Since then only seven have been caught. The last one took 200 yards of line in his first rush.

San Francisco, July 27 (AP)—Stepped-up work in San Francisco Bay shipyards is expected to have 16 reactivated cargo ships ready for sea duty by next week.

The first batch of freighters will be followed soon by other vessels ordered out of mothballs as a result of the Korean war. The emergency work has boomed shipyard payrolls. As of yesterday, 1,865 workmen have been hired by civil-

Wytheville, Va., July 27 (AP)—An outbreak of polio, which has killed almost 15 per cent of those who contracted the disease, continued unchecked today in this southwest Virginia town of 5,500 persons. The normal death rate is about four per cent. Wytheville itself has had 59 cases. Wythe county as a whole, (pop. 23,000 including Wytheville), has had 75 cases, with 11 deaths—an average of almost three cases per day since the epidemic began July 1. State Health Commissioner L. J. Roper termed the town and adjoining Wythe county an area of "tension."

This will not bring success on every hand. There are some contracts you cannot beat no matter what you do. However, you may be surprised to find out how many seemingly unbeatable contracts can really be defeated. For example, there seemed to be no way to touch the game contract shown in today's hand.

Larceny Lou, holding the West cards, opened the deuce of diamonds. East won with the ace and returned the queen of diamonds. Lou had made a fast analysis of the situation, and he overlooked the queen of diamonds with his own king. Then he promptly made the only lead that gave him a good chance to defeat the contract.

Lou led the nine of spades! He knew that his side could win only two diamonds and one club at most. He could defeat the contract only if his side could win a spade trick, since heart tricks were quite evidently out of the question.

The bidding indicated that South had five cards in each of the majors. Therefore Lou knew that his partner held only two spades. If those spades were headed by the ace, the defenders had a sure spade trick. If East had a doubleton king or queen of spades, however, there would be no spade trick if declarer were left to his own devices.

For example, suppose Lou had made the neutral return of a trump at the third trick. Declarer would draw trumps and lead a low spade from dummy. He would finesse the queen of spades, after which he would lay down the ace of spades. (South's best chance to avoid the loss of a spade trick would consist in finding a doubleton king of spades in the East hand.)

This plan would work for declarer. Lou, who had guessed the situation, led the nine of spades to coax declarer away from a play that would work and into a line of play that would fail.

The nine of spades looked to declarer like the top of a doubleton. He therefore assumed that East held the king and ten of spades. Acting on this assumption, declarer put up the jack of spades from dummy. This cooked his goose, just as Lou had planned.

East covered with the king of spades, and South won with the ace. Declarer next drew trumps and led another spade from dummy to finesse through East's supposed ten of spades. As it happened, of course, West had the ten of spades and therefore defeated the contract.

2 Bandits Escape After Gun Battle

New York, July 27 (AP)—Two bandits escaped yesterday after a gun battle in a Manhattan subway station in which a detective and two bystanders were wounded.

The holdup men ran down a subway stairway in lower Manhattan after robbing George Moskowitz, a restaurant counterpane, of $236.

Detective Dominick J. Donato saw the men running and tried to halt them for questioning. One of the bandits fired three shots at him. Donato, struck in the thigh, emptied his revolver at the fleeing pair.

The robbers, apparently unhurt, mingled with a crowd in a passageway and escaped by another stairway. Left behind wounded, besides Donato, was Rene Maurice, a retired jeweler, who had been grazed in the left thigh by Benjamin Rosenberg, a vending machine collector, another bystand-er, discovered later he had been struck in the right hip by a stray bullet and went to a hospital.

Court Bans Novel

Boston, July 27 (AP)—The Massachusetts Supreme Court has banned Erskine Caldwell's novel "God's Little Acre" from state sale. The court ruled yesterday that the book is "obscene." The decision upset a previous ruling of Superior Judge Charles S. Fairhurst that it was not obscene.

One female herring will yield as many as 7,000 eggs.

Newstand Is Banned

Detroit, July 27 (AP)—Izzy Berenson's newstand hard by Detroit's city hall is now out of action. Police hauled it away yesterday as a "public nuisance." It had been so labeled by the city council, which is making a drive against Communist propaganda distribution on municipal property. Berenson, 57, sold the Communist Daily Worker and other Communist publications. The council is still studying a proposed ordinance to forbid sales of "subversive literature."

RUSTLERS ON THE BORDER

The border between Iran and Russia is said to be shifting. It is not like sand which shifts in the wind, now this way and now that. It is a creeping encroachment by which Russia is declared to be gradually pushing the line into Iranian territory. The border is described as heavily fortified on the Russian side, and Iranians claim that the Russian border guards terrorize the Iranian inhabitants, and that whenever the Iranians on borderland flee from this terror the frontier is promptly moved so as to absorb their land.

It is a slender chance that the truth or falsehood of this claim will ever be definitely established. The border in question was set by treaty a century ago, after a series of small wars between Persia and Russia. Like other borders of Iran, it is regarded by neutral geographers as vague in spots. A shift of a few miles might be hard to prove, once the people who saw the move had disappeared.

Almost anywhere else this accusation might be fantastic. But this is a day in which Russians are accused of many fantastic things, and often with proof. Moreover the history of the border between these two nations is a long story of trouble and intrigue. Under the Czars, Russia never hesitated to take a hand in Persian affairs when the opportunity was presented. It would be surprising if the relations between modern Russia and Iran were different from those in the past.

THE PRICE RISES

The amount of indignation which has been expressed over the rapid rise of food and some other prices since the start of the incident in Korea ought to assure that there will be some official inquiries into the matter. Apparently enough heat is being generated in Congress to bring this to pass.

Any investigation which is thorough and informed is expected to turn up evidence of profiteering—the raising of prices for no reason except a belief that people in their eagerness to buy would be willing to pay. The rapid spread of price boosts indicated profiteering somewhere, almost without question. Rises due to the operation of ordinary economic factors do not occur in that fashion. Official investigation will do little good unless concrete and detailed evidence is forthcoming evidence good enough to justify publishing the findings. The profiteer does not necessarily run afoul of the law, but he will lose customers rapidly if they discover him. This point also makes it important that the charge of profiteering not be brought publicly unless it can be proved.

The thing which is not so easy to establish by official inquiry is the rise of unnecessary buying—the panic and hoard buying of things which might become scarce. This kind of buying in many cases tipped the profiteer off that he could raise his prices. Hoard buying is profiteering, too, an effort at personal gain at the expense of others and without thought for the effect on the common welfare. It is strange that a time of national crisis, requiring the best from everyone, brings out this kind of selfishness in some.

GET FIGHTING MAD—FOR PEACE

A west coast newspaper received a reader protest when it front-paged a big picture of a G.I. atrocity victim lying face down, his hands tied behind his back. The objector claimed the photograph would "stir up" people too much.

This seems to imply that the only individuals who should get stirred up about a war are the soldiers fighting it.

War is ugly, brutal, fearful. It is made up of such miserable experiences as fending off swarms of mosquitoes by night and enemy bullets by day. It is sleeping upright in a water-filled foxhole and awaking to find a tank gun staring at you. It is life at its most uncomfortable, lived in the constant, unnerving knowledge that you may be struck down at any instant.

Far from the sight and sound and smell of this, no one can really imagine how it is. But we should all try; we should not fear to

'These Days'

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

LETTERS TO THE GREAT — V

My Dear Senator Tydings:

I took considerable time and care to read your report on the Communists in the State Department. It is an unfortunate report and will plague you all the days of your life, particularly as you issued it when our boys are being killed in Korea because of the errors made by those who conducted our foreign policy and whom you were supposed to investigate.

It is a pity that you lent yourself to such a small business. You may hurt Joe McCarthy but you cannot silence the conscience of America which is crying:

"Why did it happen? How could it have happened? Who arranged things in such a way that five years after a war is over, our sons are again dying in the malarial marshes of Asia?"

Say what you will about Joe McCarthy, we are actually being forced to fight in Korea, to mobilize for war, to set up priorities, to call up the reserves, to spend our billions and to expend our sons.

Someone betrayed us. Someone is to blame. The resolution appointing your committee instructed you to find out who is to blame. That you did not even try to do so.

I note in your report that you say some very nasty things about two fine Americans, Isaac Don Levine and Ralph de Toledano. Let me quote you:

"It is also clear to us that Larson was not the author of the quoted sections of the article, but that the allegations were made by Isaac Don Levine, and, as will appear later, possibly by Ralph de Toledano. The fact that these persons have been reported to us as professional 'anti-Communists,' whose incomes and reputation depend on the developing and maintaining of new Communist fears."

As far back as 1917, Isaac Don Levine wrote a book on the Russian Revolution which still stands up for its excellence. He has since 1917 opposed communism in all its manifestations. He is no convert from Marx to whatever may be popular and profitable. He has always fought this evil and at great personal sacrifice.

There has been no profit for anyone in fighting the Communists. The profit has been all the other way. For years, anyone who fought the Communists was smeared as a Fascist. Such a writer found himself boycotted in Hollywood; the left-wing magazine editors killed his manuscript; conservative editors felt that he was running counter to the times.

Yet, Levine continued patiently to build a case against the enemies of our country. He brought General Krivitsky's data to the fore. He was responsible for bringing Whittaker Chambers' accusations to Adolf A. Berle, Jr., in the State Department and to the White House in 1950. That should have stopped Alger Hiss in his tracks, but Hiss was protected and Levine was smeared.

As for Ralph de Toledano, he is a young, ardent anti-Communist attached to Newsweek Magazine, who co-authored "Seeds of Treason," an excellent book on the Hiss espionage. Is it a crime to be an anti-Communist, professional or amateur? You seem to make it a very wicked offense. Are we still appealing Stalin? Are you not an anti-Communist?

Now, all this relates to Emmanuel S. Larsen and the magazine "Plain Talk." I do not know and do not choose to inquire, because it would be silly, whether Levine and his associates edited Larsen's article.

My assumption is that they did. Most amateurs have to be edited. Magazines and newspapers employ editors to edit.

Now, senator, have you never been edited? Has your copy always been better perfect and always fitted the space? Have you never given someone a memorandum of ideas and asked that a speech or an article be written for you?

In fact, had you had an editor copyread your report, he would never have passed such a silly paragraph as I quote. I know how easily mistakes are made. The other day, I had good, old Tom Connolly, of Texas as chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in 1947, when actually my friend Arthur Vandenberg had the job that year. And up in Glens Falls, New York, an editor caught it and made a point of it. Nobody is so perfect that a blue pencil would not occasionally improve him.

Well, senator, I wish you luck. You have to live with this thing.

Faithfully yours,

GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

DELAYING SYMPTOMS OF OLD AGE

A prominent surgeon still actively engaged in his specialty began to complain about an ache in his back and in his knee. "I suppose I must expect to have pains and aches now that I am past fifty. I also find that I tire more easily than I did just a few years ago. I guess all these things come with old age."

As a matter of fact much of the disability of which men and women just past middle age complain could be corrected by consultation with their family doctor. There is always a cause for symptoms at any and every age.

In "Postgraduate Medicine," Dr. Edward L. Bortz, Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia, reports his study of some 200 individuals in the later years of life and found that their diets were deficient in iron, calcium, in proteins, and particularly in vitamin B. In elderly people there would be a lassitude and a premature weakness and an indifference to developments, he wrote.

Second, the bowels, kidneys and skin should be kept active to get rid of wastes which tire the body as much as hard physical work.

Third, rest. Plenty of rest with enough daily walking to keep heart, lungs, digestion and bowel movement active. Sleeping pills should not be necessary. An afternoon nap is a good investment in rest.

The fourth requirement for the elderly is recreation: rehabilitation which prevents fatigue, keeps the mind and body clear, invites a new point of view and prepares the individual for the next day's work. As we look over these four needs of the elderly we must agree that they are the needs of any age. To these four may be added four other needs, suggested by Richard Cabot's book "What Men Live By"—Work, Play, Love, Worship.

be "stirred up." If we do not try, how can we ever understand why it is so vital that wars be prevented?

Back in the Service

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington.—It isn't generally known, but Admiral Roscoe Hillebrander, chief of the super-duper spy agency, Central Intelligence, had asked for sea duty well before the Korean outbreak.

The admiral has done a better job of foreign intelligence than Congress gives him credit for, but he has never been particularly happy in the job and would like to get back to a battleship.

Hillebrander was former commander of the battleship Missouri, comes from the state of Missouri, and was picked by Truman personally for the difficult intelligence assignment.

Faced with the admiral's insistence that he wants to be transferred, President Truman has asked General Bedell Smith, former U. S. ambassador to Moscow, to take over Central Intelligence. Smith, so far, has refused, on the ground that he recently underwent an ulcer operation.

Gen. Smith knows the Russians, and would be better than most military men for this assignment. However, Congress, in creating Central Intelligence, did not intend that it be run by the military. Past experience has shown that civilians are better qualified to direct detective-espionage agencies.

Therefore, some of the President's friends are urging that he appoint J. Edgar Hoover to this important post.

Hoover is one of the best organizers in government, has built up one of the best-trained investigation bureaus the world has ever seen, and has it in such good shape that it could operate under a new director.

On the other hand, getting intelligence on a prospective enemy is all-important in this day when a suitcase smuggled into an American harbor, or the flight of one plane across the Arctic, or the secret massing of troops on a certain border could cripple the United States indefinitely.

That is why a man of Hoover's genius ought to be used to head an agency which today has become even more important than the F.B.I.

After You Alphonso

Republican members of the Joint Economic Committee were just as cooperative as Democrats in supporting President Truman's call for increased taxes. Even Ohio's rugged individualist, Bob Taft, went along.

"The boys who are being inducted to fight for us are paying the greatest tax—with life and limb," declared another Ohioan, Democratic representative Walter Huber, during the closed-door meeting.

"It's up to us to shoulder the financial arms, though they may be heavy. And those who are profiting from this war should be taxed the greatest."

Even G.O.P. Congressman Robert ("Where-Are-You-Going-to-Get-the-Money") Rich of Pennsylvania agreed. However, Taft didn't enthuse over a facetious suggestion by Huber that the Ohio senator sponsor tax increase legislation—never a popular issue in an election year.

"I'll go along," grinned Robert Alphonso, who faces a hot re-election battle, "but I think the honor of sponsoring this bill belongs to you Democrats, the majority party. No, I wouldn't deny you the privilege for the world."

Brewster's Wire-Tapping

Interesting new evidence gradually accumulates in the Justice Department's belated probe of Senator Brewster's eavesdropping on Howard Hughes, the west coast aviation mogul.

It will be recalled that three years ago when the G.O.P. Senator from Maine was chairman of the Senate War Investigating Committee, he staged a headline-making investigation of the rather far-fetched charge that Hughes had spent government money extravagantly in building a giant amphibious transport plane.

It turned out, however, that Brewster had something of an axe to grind for his good friends of Pan American World Airways, and had talked to Hughes earlier about an amalgamation between Pan Am and his Trans World Airlines.

It also turned out, two years later, that Brewster had used the Metropolitan Police of the District of Columbia to tap Howard Hughes' phone and put a microphone in his room. In fact Police Chief Robert Barrett submitted a report to the Justice Department almost one year ago that one of his officers, Lieut. Joseph Shimon, had been tapping wires for Senator Brewster's investigating Committee.

Wire-tapping, of course, is barred by Section 603 of the Federal Communications Act and is a criminal offense.

Paid By Brewster's Office

However, the Justice Department, after letting the wire-tapping report gather dust for nine months, finally got around to ordering an F.B.I. investigation.

And the most interesting thing the F.B.I. has turned up is a statement made to a G-Mag by Lieut. Shimon that Senator Brewster's secretary paid him for his wire-tapping.

Another interesting point is that a close friend of Brewster's, William Power Maloney, has been retained as defense counsel for Lieut. Shimon. For, upon Shimon's testimony depends whether or not Senator Brewster becomes involved in a criminal proceeding.

So far, Shimon has stuck to a very careful story. He admits tapping Howard Hughes' phone, but he does not admit giving any information about the wire-tapping to the senator. This is aimed to let Brewster off the hook.

The senator from Maine, in turn, has figured out an interesting excuse for his association with the police lieutenant. Friends were worried over threats of physical violence, he says, so Shimon was hired to protect him. In the course of protecting him, the police lieutenant tapped the wire of Howard Hughes—the last person, incidentally, who would have attacked Brewster physically.

It sounds awfully far-fetched, but believe it or not, that's the alibi.

Note—Meanwhile, Senator Neely of West Virginia, chairman of the District of Columbia Committee in charge of police affairs, has suddenly got extremely cold feet over the thought of probing a fellow senator.

One Theory Is Big War Won't Come, Because Kremlin Fears Atom Bombs

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, July 27.—Every day that passes since the outbreak of the Korean aggression adds strength to the growing belief here that the Soviets do not actually know how to make the atom bomb or to produce it in quantity.

This is but another way of saying that the one thing that prevents large-scale war is the Kremlin's fear of America's big number of atom bombs.

If this theory is correct, then the American people need have no qualms about the $50,000,000,000 or more spent for national defense in the last five years. For while the appropriations went more heavily to the air force than to the navy or the army, the B-36's and the bombs they can carry direct to an enemy country are an investment in armament the value of which cannot be measured just in dollars spent. It may have saved countless lives.

What has been disconcerting, of course, is that the Pentagon strategists decided up the moon in such a way as to leave the United States unprepared to fight in the Pacific, either with naval aircraft carriers or with marines and infantry divisions equipped with tanks. This is known in military parlance as "calculated risk" but in this instance it was motivated to no small extent by what might be called a "diplomatic risk."

Thus, January 6th last, this correspondent reported:

"Now the United States declares that no risks of a military or naval demonstration are to be taken in connection with the emergence of communism in China, even though evidence is available that the Communists of China and Moscow are in alliance on world policies."

"From a purely strategic point of view, the new policy means scuttling the Pacific. It means an invitation to further friction in the Far East, because the United States, after extending recognition to Russia's satellite states, has nevertheless encouraged, exhorting incidents in nearly every one of them."

"When a great power manifests military weakness, it finds itself subjected to insults. The fact that the United States has revealed itself afraid to make any show of force in the Far East could be construed by Russia as meaning that a similar withdrawal from the arena in Europe could come same day."

To what extent, it may be asked, has the Soviet Union been influenced by America's scuttling of the Pacific and the announcement of the summer of 1949 of the diminished naval forces permitted to remain in commission?

To what extent also did the Kremlin decide that real damage could be done in harassing the United States by formulating little wars and causing a strain on the economy of this country such as is being threatened today?

Every day that passes indicates that, if the Kremlin had intended to take advantage of the military weakness of the United States and her Allies in Europe itself, the Red armies could readily have overrun all of Germany and France and Italy by this time. For the counter-balancing strength has not been built up and will not be for years. But the Far East presented an open invitation for the Red armies to virtually no naval strength there and no line of supply in operation capable of sustaining an expeditionary force.

The Kremlin knows that America will not provoke a war. Up to a few weeks ago, when the Korean aggression occurred, the Russian high command didn't know whether American policy would be to abandon or defend South Korea.

Today the major fact available to Russian strategists is that the United States and the U.N. will stand together and resist any aggression in Europe of Asia which threatens the territorial integrity of member nations. This means in reinforcing the satellite armies stirring up local wars but will not allow a large-scale war to happen.

But, meanwhile, America, apprehensive of a large-scale war, is mobilizing slowly but surely for that contingency. Military force is at best a "holding" or delaying operation. Concurrently, the opportunity for a psychological approach to the Russian people increases and it would not be surprising to see in the immediate future more moves along this line emanating from Washington.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, July 26.—Sunday afternoon I found myself in need of a quarter-inch ball-bearing to replace the pill of a miniature roulette wheel that I had received as an advertising novelty from Wilbur Clark, of the Desert Inn at Las Vegas, Nevada. I wanted to give the roulette wheel to the children of a friend up in Westchester who have just about every sort of toy there is and are very hard to find anything new and amusing for.

I had entertained myself pleasantly for an hour or so spinning the little wheel and betting against myself and finally the ball had jumped the rim and dropped into the grating of the window sill into the radiator box. This being Sunday, the handy man wasn't around and I tried a nail file, a couple of forks and a button hook but couldn't lift the grating.

A maid came in and I asked her if she knew where she could lay her hands on a good stout screwdriver or a chisel. She said no, but she thought she might be able to solve my problem with something she had found in one of the rooms. She went away and came back with a pearl. I spun the wheel but it wouldn't budge, only about three-sixteenths and then it light and kept hopping off the wheel.

So I decided to drive up through the Bronx where I remembered seeing some scrapyards, figuring that you never can tell, someone might be bringing around even on a Sunday.

As we passed the Yankee Stadium, we remembered that 28 years ago on our day off we got on the subway down at the old World and decided to get off as soon as we saw a tree and hunt around for an apartment. The Yankee Stadium is the first station after you come out of the hole but we didn't get off until the next station which is 167th and Jerome avenue. There were several farms along there and almost right at the station on the west side of the street people still were living in an old farmhouse and raising garden truck and rabbits. We walked up the hill to where some new apartments were going up and rented one then and there from the plans.

I tried one shot at a gas station but the man said nah they didn't have no ball-bearings, but up around 175th or so there was a little sawnny man with a four or five day stand of whiskers sitting on a box outside a garage and I took a chance on him. Nah, he didn't have a ball-bearing although I had come yesterday I would have been in luck because he had saved a bearing out of an old distributor but somebody had thrown it out. He didn't believe in throwing things out. You never know but they will come in handy, like now.

A big kid about 21 came out and asked if he could do anything and my friend on the box said no he was too young to know anything about bearings.

"I am an old mechanic," he said. "I know what you want and we haven't got one in the place. What do you want it for, anyway?"

I told him and got out the little roulette wheel to show him. He said it looked more like a five-sixteenths slot to him and then he started across the street to a place called, I think, Vicks garage. The man there was drowsing deep in a chair listening to the Yankees' ball-game a mile or so down Jerome. He didn't have a bearing either.

"Come on with me," the little sawnny man said. "I will get you a bearing although you may be right at that; it may be a quarter-inch. Drive two blocks down and turn right."

We got out at a junk-yard and went into the shop. The man there said he didn't believe he had such a thing as a bearing but my friend said, "sure you have; let's just look around, and we started scuttling old rusted junk in the yard like lions scratching.

"I am an old mechanic," my friend said. "From my truck I was with Eddie Rick on the front in France. I was a race driver, too, in those days. My name is Mercer. Does that name mean anything to you? My family made the old Mercer car in Springfield, Mass., and then in Trenton. I was down at Fort Sam with General Funston and later I drove for him in Europe. I haven't seen Captain Rickinbacker for a long time but I got some old letters that I got from him. He is a great man."

"And here I am like you see," he said.

He rolled up his right sleeve and his forearm was terribly wrinkled and the skin was a gray.

"It is like that over practically most of my body," he said. "I was in a gasoline explosion. And I have got the sickness, too. It is eating me up."

"What do you mean?" I asked. "The big casino?"

"That's right," he said.

contracts will be awarded to the low bidder. The names of the low bidders and the amounts bid on the various contracts are as follows:

Construction Work—Walter A. Stanley Construction Co., Inc., of Ossining, $295,834, four bids submitted.

Heating Work—Whitney-Dierks Heating Corp., of Poughkeepsie, $315,600, eight bids submitted.

Electric Work—Field Electric

Co., of Port Chester and Delta Electric Inc. of White Plains, $89,906, five bids submitted.

Sanitary Work—C. F. Mentzinger's Son, Inc., of Elmhurst, $19,544, two bids submitted.

The new brick building, about 109 feet long and 77 feet wide, will be located approximately 130 feet to the east of the existing power house. The structure will be supported on spread footings and will have reinforced concrete foundation walls. Limestone will be used for window sills and copings. A granite base will be provided for the blow off chamber.

Five ply built up roofing material will cover the concrete roof slab. Two copper ventilators complete with fans, and each 24 inches in diameter will project above the high roof over the boiler room.

The basement of the building will provide space for the foundations of the boilers, a pump room, a transformer room and an incinerator room. Oil tank tunnels will be provided leading from the oil tanks to the boilers.

First Floor Plans
The first floor of the building will provide space for the boiler room, sanitary facilities for employees and inmates, a generator room, a loading platform and charging platform for the incinerator and a storeroom. A can washing unit will be furnished and installed in one corner of the charging room. A separate chimney will be provided for the incinerator.

The main chimney will be located just outside the east wall of the new building. It will be a radial type chimney, 146 feet high, with an inside diameter of nearly 13 feet at the base and tapering to an inside diameter of about seven feet at the top.

The construction contractor will construct a six foot square tunnel, approximately 200 feet long from the new building to the old power house. The tunnel will carry service piping and wiring from the new building to existing connections in the old.

High Pressure Boilers
The heating contractor will furnish and install four 350 H.P. high pressure oil fired boilers in the boiler room of the new building. Four 25,000 gallon fuel oil tanks will be installed outside the building to supply the eight oil burners which will fire the boilers. Each boiler will be provided with a forced draft fan and complete combustion controls. In addition, this contractor will furnish and install complete power plant apparatus, including return tank, return pumps, feed water heater and boiler feed pumps.

The work of the electric contractor includes the furnishing and installation of a complete turbine generator set, metal clad switch gear, transformers, conduit, wire, panels, underground service connections and motor connections. He will also be responsible for moving the existing water control panel from the existing power house to the new power plant.

The sanitary contractor will furnish and install a complete sewage pumping apparatus in addition to the sanitary facilities on the first floor of the building.

This project has been requested by the Department of Mental Hygiene as part of its program for improving the facilities at mental institutions throughout the state.

Anglo Statement
not specify the size of the combat group to be sent, but it apparently would be substantially more than the 1,000-man minimum. London news dispatches speculated that it might range from a battalion to a brigade, from 1,000 to 5,000 men.

There was other help in the offering, including the announcement of two British Commonwealth countries, Australia and New Zealand, that they will send land forces. Turkey already has offered 4,500 trained combat troops.

If it is the combat-wise veteran units that could be of special value in Korea if they could be landed there soon.

The Pentagon looked sadly on the departure from the eastern hemisphere of Holland's colonial army. Units of the Royal Netherlands Indies army were getting ready yesterday to pull out of Indonesia, headed for home.

'Out of Question'
These soldiers have fought for

MILEAGE FROM KOREAN FRONT TO PUSAN

Map shows approximate air mileage from three key points on South Korean front to main U. S. supply port at Pusan as North Korean forces (dark arrows) continue push down the peninsula, July 26. From Haidong, where U. S. troops (open arrow) are reported in action against the Reds, it is approximately 70 air miles. From U. S. positions east of Yongdong about 95 air miles, and from Kanggu on east coast about 80 air miles. Broken line is approximate battle line.

years, are highly skilled at fighting through rugged, mountainous terrain like Korea. But Lt. Gen. Buurman Van Vredendael, commander of the Dutch forces in Indonesia, said diversion of his troops to Korea was "out of the question." His soldiers want to go home after years of service abroad, he explained.

Pentagon officials still insist that a foothold in Korea will be maintained until the build-up for a counter-offensive is ready. They maintain that view publicly and privately.

They saw that during the next few weeks the reinforcements from the United States, plus more and better arms and ammunition, should be able to get into action. That is the critical time. If they can't, or if the Red forces get more power from hidden resources of manpower, then the situation will be more than critical.

Remembers Columbus
Genoa (AP)—The city of Genoa will mark the 500th anniversary of the birth of Christopher Columbus with a year-long series of celebrations beginning October 12, 1950. A citizens committee has been formed to draw up a program for the commemoration ceremonies.

12,000 Priests Are Killed, Jailed or Exiled in 5 Years

Vatican City, July 27 (AP)—Approximately 12,000 Roman Catholic priests have been killed or made prisoners or exiled by the Communist regimes of Russian satellites during the past five years, the Vatican radio said today.

The radio broadcast its charges in all languages, including those of Iron Curtain countries. It said: "At a time when the emissaries of communism throughout the world are talking of what they wish to call the campaign for peace, it certainly is interesting to note some statistics that show what is thought of peace on the other side of the Iron Curtain."

This was a reference to the world-wide Communist drive to obtain millions of signatures on the Stockholm peace petition which calls for the outlawing of the atom bomb.

The broadcast followed the appeal of Pope Pius XII in an encyclical yesterday for prayers for peace. The Pontiff scored countries where "not truth but falsehood is presented under a certain guise of reason" and in which "disturbances and disorders are provoked."

The Vatican broadcast listed the number of priests slain, jailed, exiled and impeded in their ministries in each of several European countries.

3,500 in Ukraine
In the Ukraine alone, since 1945, more than 3,600 priests have been killed and 1,000 churches and chapels, closed or razed to the ground, the radio said.

The following figures were given for other countries: Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania—1,000 priests killed or jailed. Poland—1,000 priests deported (usually to Siberia).

Czechoslovakia—300 secular priests jailed; the number of regular priests who met the same fate unknown.

Hungary—About 1,000 religious (priests and nuns) jailed; 538 put to death or deported; another 580 religious persons removed from their ministries.

Romania—More than 700 priests victims of religious persecutions. Bulgaria—120 priests arrested or exiled.

Yugoslavia—1,954 priests put to death, arrested or deported while another 400 sought refuge abroad. Albania—715 ecclesiastics including all of the country's bishops, impeded from conducting their ministries.

A Bit Tough

Danville, Ill. (AP)—Bob Debaugh was in a hurry. He snatched the well-filled paper sack from the kitchen table and hustled away to his job as a caddy at the Harrison Park golf course. He sat down to eat his lunch at noon, opened the sack, and pulled out a pair of old shoes.

FIGHTING MARINE ("JUNIOR CLASS")—Seven-year-old Tommy Hart, left, of Detroit, Mich., thought he heard the man on the radio say that "men of seven" could enlist in the Marine Corps, so he hot-footed it down to the recruiting station. "No Hart ever had to be drafted," he told Marine Capt. Garth Sturdevant. Capt. Sturdevant took Tommy's fingerprints and signed him up as a Marine, "Junior Class." That's his honorary membership card. Tommy is proudly showing his friend, Donald Poniatowski.

Summerfield Quits Post As G.O.P. Strategy Head

Washington, July 27 (AP)—Internal dissension within the Republican National Committee came to light today with the resignation of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as chairman of the party's strategy committee.

In a letter to national committee members and other party officials, Summerfield charged that National Chairman Guy C. Gabrielson planned to let the strategy group "die on the vine." Gabrielson told a reporter the party's executive committee had "urged me to dissolve the strategy committee" in view of regional party conferences being held at various cities.

The strategy committee was formed during the regime of Gabrielson's predecessor, Rep. Hugh D. Scott, Jr., with the aim of taking over active direction of the drive to elect a G.O.P. Congress in November.

Its members include representatives of the national committee, governors, state chairmen, finance chairmen and Senator Brewster of Maine and Rep. Leonard Hall of New York, heads of the Senate and House campaign committees.

Worked Out Program
Summerfield said in his letter that despite the fact that neither Scott nor Gabrielson had given the group any funds it had worked out "a very well conceived and constructive program" for the campaign.

But Summerfield said that Gabrielson first wanted to abolish the committee altogether and then decided to let it die on the vine.

"I believe if there ever was a time when we needed the services of Republican leaders everywhere working together in full cooperation with all units of our party, it is now," Summerfield wrote national committee members, adding:

"This view apparently is not shared by our chairman and some of the unnamed national committee members who he says have continually urged him to adopt his stated course."

Obviously in arriving at this decision, Chairman Gabrielson is in reality forcing the strategy committee to dissolve by reason of its proposed inactivity."

Gabrielson's Comment
Asked to comment, Gabrielson said:

"A resolution adopted by the Republican National Committee in February authorized the termination of all subcommittees except the executive committee at the discretion of the chairman.

"Members of the executive committee urged me to dissolve the strategy committee, in view of our regional conferences at Atlantic City, Salt Lake City, and Chicago, which are bringing together governors, state chairmen, state finance chairmen, young Republicans and Republican women's organizations. At the request of Mr. Summerfield and others, I agreed to withhold action until after the election upon his assurance that the strategy committee would remain dormant."

"The executive committee is meeting monthly until after the election. I shall continue to rely upon its counsel, and to work in cooperation with the national Republican senatorial committee and the national Republican congressional committee."

Walter Hallahan, West Virginia national committeeman, learned that Summerfield's letter had leaked out and called a reporter to say that Summerfield was garbling the facts in the situation.

"His letter is filled with half-truths and malicious distortion," Hallahan declared.

U. S. Army Ends
Personnel Leaves
In European Area

Heidelberg, Germany, July 27 (AP)—U. S. Army Headquarters European Command announced today it had frozen all enlisted and officer personnel in Europe for six months, beginning August 31. This means that all home leaves are cancelled after August 31.

The army announcement said: "Normal foreign service tours of all personnel in the U. S. army, Europe, and of all those who have voluntarily extended their tours of duty in the European Command have been extended for six months, effective August 31. 'The extension applies to officers and enlisted men.'"

"Orders which have been issued for rotation of personnel scheduled to leave the European Command after August 31 have been revoked."

"Cases of undue hardship as a result of this policy will be reported to U. S. army headquarters in Europe."

Army authorities at headquarters here declined to elaborate on the official announcement. They said the order came from Washington and that their job was to carry it out.

An American army troop strength in Europe is about 110,000. One officer who declined to be identified by name said he thought the order was "obvious" in its meaning.

"We simply have to keep what we've got here," he said. "There was no indication immediately that the U. S. Air Force in Europe was taking a similar step. The United States maintains only a token naval force in Germany, but a sizeable one in the Mediterranean."

May Lift Order For Boiling Water
A health department order to residents of New Palitz village to boil drinking water is expected to be rescinded tomorrow morning.

Harry F. Edinger, the county health department's director of environmental sanitation, has a crew of men making tests in the village. "If they find adequate chlorine residuals throughout the village, the order will be lifted Friday morning," Edinger said.

The order was issued as a precautionary measure by Dr. Robert H. Broad, county health commissioner, immediately after a water main and sewage pipe were broken about noon Wednesday.

The two lines were accidentally cut by a contractor's power shovel during reconstruction of Route 32 at the intersection of North Chestnut street in New Palitz. Route 32 in the village is known as North Front street.

The main was repaired by Wednesday afternoon. Because sewage might have leaked into the water main, the main was de-watered and flushed. The water has been heavily chlorinated and health department men are making tests today to determine whether any contamination remains in the drinking water. If, as is expected by health department authorities, the water is found free of contamination, the boiled water order will be lifted tomorrow morning. Meanwhile, residents were cautioned to continue boiling water for drinking and cooking until a final report that the order has been rescinded.

Transport Plane
With 26 Is Down

Tokyo, July 27 (AP)—General MacArthur's headquarters announced a C-47 transport plane from Tokyo was reported down in the ocean about 10 miles south of Oshima Island with 26 persons aboard.

One survivor has been picked up and a search is continuing for the others, the announcement said.

The plane was a regular courier plane bound for Kureh. It left Oshima Island at 4:05 a. m. (1:05 p. m. Wednesday EST). There were 23 passengers and three crewmen on board.

Headquarters said the Third Air Rescue Squadron has been alerted for a search.

Financial and Commercial

New York, July 27 (AP)—The stock market advanced on a wide front today.

Steels did best with gains running to around $2 a share following the steels in close order were motors, rubbers and rails. There were few groups with no representation in the plus column.

A substantial amount of business was done.

Wall Street sources credited two factors with stimulating demand.

First, General MacArthur's statement, after a second surprise visit to the Korean war front, that "I was never more confident of victory—ultimate victory—in my life than I am now."

Second, President Truman's statement that he sees no necessity now for wage, price and manpower controls.

Railway bonds, especially those in the lower price bracket, improved. U. S. governments held steady in over-the-counter dealings.

Cashmere Will Quit
New York, July 27 (AP)—Brooklyn Borough President John Cashmore will step down tomorrow as leader of the Kings county Democratic organization. Francis J. Sinnott, Kings county clerk, is expected to be installed in his place.

Cashmore notified leaders in Brooklyn's 24 assembly districts by telegram last night of a meeting of the county Democratic executive committee.

Suicide Occurs On New York Bus
New York, July 27 (AP)—An intercity bus rolled to a stop today at a 34th street Greyhound bus terminal, and 15 passengers and the driver got out.

One man stayed on the bus. When the driver, James Weisman, 26, of Philadelphia, returned to the bus a few minutes later, he found the man bleeding from a bullet wound in the head.

A 32 caliber revolver was gripped in the man's hand, and a note in his shirt pocket said he was "in a jam." Pronounced dead when a doctor arrived, the man was tentatively identified from papers in his pocket as Louis Joseph, about 32, of Dorchester, Mass.

None of the passengers or driver had heard the gunshot. Police, who called the case apparent suicide, said the noise of mid-town Manhattan traffic must have drowned out the sound of the shot.

South Koreans, Americans
Drive Reds Back, Is Report

American 8th Army Headquarters in Korea, July 27 (AP)—South Korean troops, aided by American air and sea power, drove the Reds back in two sectors of the arching 200 mile front today as U. S. troops in the center poured heavy fire into attacking Communist forces.

Gains were made by the south-ers at Yongdok, on the east coast, where naval gunfire and land artillery came to the aid of the South Koreans. At Hamchang the Reds were shoved back seven miles. Hamchang is northeast of fallen Yongdok, where the First U. S. Cavalry was driven back Tuesday.

A regiment of Americans in the 25th U. S. Division's sector of the front was endangered. An Eighth Army communiqué said, by Red infiltrators who got behind them.

The army headquarters said 200 Communists sneaked behind the Americans at 3 p. m. (midnight E.S.T.) and planes were asked to aid the U. S. troops.

"This should eliminate the threat," it added.

Four enemy tanks were knocked out with two 2.36 inch bazookas fired by South Koreans in the left sector of their lines.

The South Koreans were reported just south of Yongdok. A radio station being used by the Communists as a command post at Tajon was destroyed in a B-26 raid. Aerial photographs had uncovered the post.

MacArthur Sends Back His Escort
Tokyo, July 27 (AP)—General MacArthur dismissed escorting fighter planes on the way back from a flying trip to Korea today so they could return to the front "where they'll do the most good."

MacArthur's pilot, Major Anthony Story of St. Louis, Mo., told about it after bringing the general's plane, "Bataan," through a drizzle to the wet runways of Tokyo Airport.

"The 'Bataan' was being escorted by three rocket-carrying F51 Mustangs," MacArthur told Story.

"Release the escort so they can go back to the front and put those rockets where they'll do the most good. We will make it all right."

Major Story said that before his flight MacArthur was advised against taking his plane, a big C-54, into the dirt airstrip near the fighting front. No plane that large had landed on the red South Korean strips, MacArthur replied, "if they can get a puke jumper in there, Story can get the Bataan in."

Kornblum predicted that if the strikers could reach an agreement with the sand and gravel supply dealers, the way would be paved for an agreement with 80 smaller companies which transport lime, plaster, gypsum block and other building materials. The labor group, however, has offered a wage increase of only $1.36 a day.

Eighty dealers in limestone, plaster and gypsum charged the strikers yesterday with unfair labor practices.

Sidney Sugerman, counsel for the dealers, filed the charges with the National Labor Relations Board against Local 282 of the Teamsters Union.

He said the charges involved "refusal to bargain in good faith" for a contract to replace one that expired June 30. The union had no comment on the N.L.R.B. charges.

Estimates of the number of A.F.L. construction workers idled by the teamsters' strike range up to 175,000.

House Votes
Port Safeguards

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The House voted today to erect safeguards against the sneak entry of possible bomb-carrying "Trojan ships" into U. S. ports.

Without opposition, it whipped through a bill authorizing the President to search and control movements of all foreign flag vessels entering American waters.

Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.) told the House the legislation is aimed to prevent a potential enemy from bringing the A-bomb into American harbors under the guise of merchant shipping.

Search of foreign vessels would be conducted by the Coast Guard or the custom service upon order of the President in a national emergency.

"The bill goes back to the Senate for action on minor changes before going to the White House for Mr. Truman's signature."

Customs officials on the west coast already have taken steps to forestall possible efforts of foreign ships to bring atomic bombs or bacterial warfare ingredients into American harbors.

Paul Leake, collector of customs at San Francisco, said all foreign vessels presently or potentially unfriendly to the U. S. will be halted off shore until a thorough search of the ship and cargo has been made. It was disclosed that inspectors will use Geiger counters to detect possible presence of atom bombs.

Teamsters Vote On Wage Offer
New York, July 27 (AP)—A.F.L. Teamsters, whose nine-day-old strike has crippled a major part of building construction in New York city and Long Island, vote today on a renewed wage offer by a group of trucking employers.

The 1,100 striking teamsters will decide whether to accept a $16-a-day wage plus an employer-paid vacation plan.

The 1,900 members of the A.F.L. International Brotherhood of Teamsters, struck in support of a demand for a $5 daily hike from $13.08 to $18.08.

The balloting was announced last night by Daniel Kornblum, deputy director of the city division of labor relations.

The offer, he said, was made by 60 sand and gravel companies, which solve the largest part of the building industry's problem in the tieup.

Kornblum predicted that if the strikers could reach an agreement with the sand and gravel supply dealers, the way would be paved for an agreement with 80 smaller companies which transport lime, plaster, gypsum block and other building materials. The labor group, however, has offered a wage increase of only $1.36 a day.

Estimates of the number of A.F.L. construction workers idled by the teamsters' strike range up to 175,000.

Do You Remember

by SOPHIE MILLER

Covering some of the parks as written in Judge Clearwater's history brought response. I remember having talked with Captain Andrew Hickey, president of the Ulster County Historical Society, about the "Strand Gate" of the Stockade, just where it was in relation to the Academy Green. This item is covered in "Olde Ulster" of June 1914, page 161 under the heading of "Academy Green and Its Indian Treaties." I noticed the tablets covering the Indian peace treaties and tablet of the Old Kingston Academy during the outdoor Art Exhibit. I wonder how many school children have seen them?

Editor Brink of "Olde Ulster" writes in part: "One of these historical places is the Academy Green, especially the angle at the corner of Clinton and Albany avenues. The old stockade reached as far as Main street, where East Front street (now Clinton avenue) emerged from that enclosure was the entrance and exit known as 'The Strand Gate.' From this, ran the road to the landing at Rondout, or The Strand. Just beyond the gate was the level commons which was denominated in the old maps and surveys 'The First Plain.' Upon this, Kingston Academy built its edifice when it had outgrown the old building on the corner of John and Crown streets.

"The Mill Gate" led into the stockade at the corner of North Front and Green streets. Through this the villagers had access to Hurley, Marlborough and most of the farm lands, as well as to the mill, the tannery, and the brew-house.

"Through 'The Strand Gate' they had communication and traffic with the vessels which were the means of intercourse with the outside world, especially with the Manhattan and Fort Orange, now Albany.

"There were many conferences, negotiations and official palavers with the red men on the part of the colonial authorities in adjusting the affairs between the two races. All of these were held outside of the 'Strand Gate.' Indians were not permitted inside the stockade, unless singly or practically so. As the road to 'The Strand' bore off from the gate towards the left, on its course to 'The Strand' along the line of the present Albany avenue, it brought the spot where these conferences must be held to the Academy Green." Editor Brink called Academy Green, the Court of Peace.

In another "Olde Ulster" loaned to me by the Port Ewen library, this one dated August 1914, I find General Gates' letter, dated October 15th, 1777, giving Lt. General Burgoyne's proposed surrender to His Excellency, Governor Clinton. As soon as written, this letter was dispatched to Albany. The Albany Committee of Safety rushed the communication to Kingston by messenger on horseback, Bernardus Hallenbeck. He galloped the 35 miles down the Old Kings Road to Kingston. There the Council of Safety was sitting at the Elmdorf Inn, corner Maiden Lane and Fair street. He arrived breathless at 5 p. m. to announce the important surrender. They immediately ordered that the treasurer of the state pay to Bernardus Hallenbeck, the bearer of said letter, the sum of $50.

The Council of Safety adjourned for there was nothing more to do. But that night the sinister British fleet reached our Esopus Island. The next day, October 16th, red-coated John Vaughn burned Kingston before Governor Clinton and his troops could reach us even with a forced march. On that sad day for Kingston, all other colonists were able to rejoice, for the terms of Burgoyne's surrender was signed, but Kingston was a mass of burned ruins.

State of Siege Exists

Guatemala, Guatemala, July 27 (AP)—This capital city was under a state of siege today as a result of Tuesday's anti-government rioting in which one person was killed and scores wounded. The violence, which raged through the capital's main street, grew out of a heated political campaign leading to the presidential election slated for sometime in November or December. Government opponents are trying to force the resignation of President Juan Jose Arevalo.

New York, July 27 (AP)—The oil refining industry celebrates its 100th birthday this month by seeking ways to power a great many more miles of military plane flights without asking you to cut down on your Sunday auto trips. It thinks it can do it, if the war doesn't spread.

Refining capacity has increased greatly since the war. But never before did Americans demand as much gasoline for so many cars. And each year the military bring out new kinds of planes demanding always more specialized gasoline and always in greater quantities. That means a tight squeeze this year for the industry in the small-scale Korean crisis. In a real all-out war the family car would have to spend most of its time in the garage.

The National Petroleum Council, made up of industry leaders, canvassed the situation yesterday with the National Security Resources Board. They promised to tackle at once one of the chief bottlenecks. It arises from this situation:

One prized grade of aviation gasoline contains a high proportion of high-octane fuel derived by the alkylation process. The industry has a capacity of 115,000 barrels of alkylate a day, but has been using about 20 per cent of that in automobile gasoline. The military now want all of it for aviation, and some oilmen expect them to demand even greater production next year. Premium auto gasoline would be the first to feel the pinch.

No Longer in Operation
Part of the trouble is that 16 of the 56 plants that made this aviation gasoline ingredient in the last war are no longer in operation.

However, refiners believe they can meet most military requirements quickly. They boast that they've always been out in front of the rest of the petroleum industry. In fact, the first oil refinery started in July, 1850, and it wasn't until August, 1853, that the first oil well was drilled in Pennsylvania.

James Young, a Scot, started refining oil from coal near Glasgow and called his product "coal oil." In 1854 an American chemist, Dr. Abram Gesner patented kerosene, obtained from coal, and there were 50 primitive refineries in the United States cooking kerosene out of coal when Col. Edwin Laurentine Drake drilled the first well near Titusville, Pa., 90 years ago.

Developed Quickly
The industry developed quickly after that, since the petroleum from wells much more economical than the oil cooked out of coal. Now once more, scientists are trying for economical ways of getting oil from coal and shale to feed the ever increasing peacetime and wartime demands for oil.

From the simple kerosene, or coal oil, the industry has mushroomed into more than 2,500 products, the American Petroleum Institute reports. They include such things as the wax on soda straws, ointments, cosmetics, cleaning fluids, insecticides, weed killers, and asphalt. Petroleum products furnish raw materials for: Synthetic rubber, plastics, paints, alcohols, TNT, dyestuffs, soaps.

The nation now has 346 operating refineries with a capacity to handle more than 6½-million barrels of crude oil a day. There are 45 non-operating plants, bringing total potential capacity to 6½-million barrels.

Could Stop Up
The latest domestic crude oil production was about 5½ million barrels, but the oil industry could step this up considerably as needed. And Venezuela produces nearly 1½ million barrels a day. Oil imports from all sources have been running around 800,000 barrels daily.

The crude oil capacity of all refineries has gone up 172 per cent in 15 years, although the number of refineries has decreased by 70 per cent.

There are catalytic cracking units in 87 of the operating refineries, with a capacity of more than 1½ million barrels a day, and thermal cracking units in 203 plants. Total cracking capacity is up 180 per cent in 15 years, to a total of 3,708,000 barrels a day.

For the high octane rating gasoline the war planes require, the industry has alkylation processes in 26 per cent. Each of these squeeze a little more gasoline from a barrel of crude, and gasoline of higher octane.

Before cracking processes were discovered, refineries got about 25 per cent of gasoline out of a barrel of crude oil by simply distilling it. With the various cracking processes, which break down the oil molecules and reform them into gasoline, they now get about 42 per cent of gasoline out of a barrel of crude.

minutes," and his supporters in the audience shouted for him to go on talking, and others demanded that he quit.

The session became noisy and Relyea banged the gavel and shouted: "We'll close this hearing in a minute, if this doesn't stop." The audience continued in an impatient stir, which ended when the chairman said he would allow Martin an extra minute.

Callie Martin 'Wind Bag'
Martin said it would be impossible for him to develop his argument in a minute. Then he put himself on record as opposing the project "Until such time as the housing authority publishes sections of the public housing law of 1939 which will show what citizens and taxpayers are confronting."

The former alderman began his talk by hitting at the Progressive Taxpayer and Rent Payers Association, "which some one in my family called my attention to."

This he said, was a "new organization formed 24 hours before this hearing." Martin contended that the housing law originated in 1939 long before veterans interests were involved and he argued that the one in question could not be called one for veterans. He was starting to recite his own experiences with projects in other cities when Alderman Relyea reminded him that he was going over the time limit.

Melville, whose talk was one of the shortest, was among those to demand that Martin quit, but he held the floor until the chair had three minutes. "Everyone had up this wind bag," Melville said.

Edward K. Loftin, 75 Florence street, who had talked at some length at the hearing last year, said "As far as I am concerned, this project seems to be planned with the idea of spending as much as possible."

Loftin held that three foundations for three so-called buildings would be costly. He hit at the plan to include recreation facilities in the area and he argued that the project should be self-sustaining.

Harold F. Conlin, who said he had lived on Flatbush avenue for 3 years, said improvements had been made there in that time, and if the project went through, it would mean curbing and sidewalks and other improvements.

Cites Private Cost
Conlin said he knew few veterans who had bought their own homes, and one he did know, he said, recently was unable to pay a telephone bill because of the cost of his home. If the city had low rental housing project, he intended, a lot of G.I.'s would not have to run themselves in debt for 20 years.

William Gaffken said there have been "attempts made to label this a veterans project . . . at the final analysis it may be to house a single veteran." The one to do something about housing, he argued, was "right after we got home."

A lot of veterans, he said, went ahead and bought their own homes, and they are now paying taxes and trying to keep their heads above water. I think we should try to give consideration to these veterans."

Gaffken held that the cost of the project was "outrageous," and he estimated $11,900 for a four-room unit, he said, was excessive as compared to the cost of small individual home, and he cited the Donatuma project as an example of low cost housing.

Gaffken mentioned the war in Korea to stress that "the situation this year is different from that of a year ago" and he pointed to President Truman's request for curtailment in the use of materials.

Flanagan Speaks
E. Frank Flanagan, president of the Savings & Loan Association of Kingston, who said he was speaking as a private citizen, called attention to his opposition to the project last year, and his reasons were presented in a letter to the editor of The Freeman at that time.

The association he represents he said, furnished between 700 and 800 veterans approximately $4,000,000. He was opposed to the project, he said, first, because "at a time like this we are liable to run into a bad situation—one that would take supplies from private buyers."

Other reasons for his opposition, he said, were that "our slums would still be with us, and he contended that it was a "political football." Insofar as he could determine, he said, housing was defeated on the ballot in every ward in the city.

U. S. 'Bailed Out Loans'

George E. Yerry, Jr. said he was speaking mainly for 1,500 labor men and their families. He referred to the circular passed out before the hearing and observed that it was prepared by the United States Savings and Loan League.

Referring to this fact and to Flanagan's talk, he said, "It wasn't too long ago that the U. S. government to the tune of $100 millions, bailed out the loan associations."

"Did they tell you," Yerry asked, that "all veterans insured against loss . . . the poor guy who has the mortgage . . . has to pay to protect the property?"

Compares Wages

Yerry then gave "Official figures of the New York State Department of Labor," to show that weekly wages in Kingston are $20 below those in Poughkeepsie.

The average weekly earnings in Kingston as of December, 1948, was $48.06, he said, and in Poughkeepsie it was $68.05. In December, 1949, the average wage in Kingston was down to $46.25 while in Poughkeepsie it went up to $66.76.

Hourly earnings in Kingston in 1949 was $1.21 while in Poughkeepsie it was $1.53. A year later the rate in Kingston was $1.19 and in Poughkeepsie $1.82.

The city "17 miles from here," he said is prosperous, and they have seen fit to start a housing project. "There is a definite policy here to lower wages," he said, and there is "no consideration for the poor wage earner."

Union for Project
Yerry then called attention to the advertisement of the Kingston Taxpayers League in which it was stated "You'll have to foot the bill whether you want to or not." This was true, he said whether we have a project or not, because of the state collection from all taxpayers for housing everywhere.

Yerry said he was one of the group which formed the "new organization last night." It was in favor of progress, he stressed, and was "not a front for anybody," and as "for labor unions," he said, "we are 100 per cent for public housing progress."

Arthur J. Burns, local realtor, said last year the housing project started as one for slum clearance. If it is still such, he asked, "What are we going to do with the people down there?" He wanted to know how some of the larger families are going to live in four rooms. He cited figures to show that about 675 dwelling units have developed during four years in the area, and he predicted: "If this situation goes on you'll see plenty of houses to rent," because many who are buying new homes are moving out of apartments.

Against Memorial
William J. Ferguson, 38 Plymouth avenue, who said he had been a merchant marine officer for 34 years, was opposed to using the name Robert Dietz Memorial for a housing project. His son fought with Dietz, he said, in the Seventh Armored Division, and was a bearer at his funeral.

Ferguson said he didn't think any veteran or the average worker could afford to live in a housing project, and he said "the veteran was better off to build."

W. A. Carl, contended that if the housing project as proposed were operated by private enterprise it would show a deficit of $753.54 a year, without considering interest, repairs and other incidental expenses. This was based on the proposed rental of $37.28 a month.

Attorney Hugh Elwyn said he backed "everything Frank Flanagan said," because he has seen "Veteran after veteran," able to buy and pay for his own home $50 a month.

Elwyn said the project, slated to bring in $44,700 in annual rent, would "go into the red $15,500 a year." This would not include interest and amortization.

If it were a low cost project, he said, it would be different, but it is "only low rent, and you and I and all the taxpayers pay to make it low rent."

"I am a veteran," the speaker said, adding, "All we want is a fair break, and I think we got it when we got the G.I. loan." Stressing that a man making $2,900 a year, would be eligible for low rental housing, he contended that a man on that salary, was not in need of such a project.

Mrs. Adele Bregman, 126 Broadway, suggested a housing project by some "substantial local business man," and let the G.I. "pay rent to a private man and not to the city hall . . . The city should not go into the real estate business."

"The city has 'a factory where a man can work,'" she said, but Poughkeepsie has industry and has a demand for housing. "Who are we going to give the houses to?" She suggested giving somebody 15 years free of taxes to sponsor a project, "like the Metropolitan."

culations. Americans are dying in Korea because the troops of the Korean republic were not adequately equipped. This was a political decision."

He claimed that the Truman administration's foreign policy was a mystery to the people of the U. S. and to the world in general.

The governor said: "No one knows what our policy is. You can't even find out our policies if you are a member of the administration."

Dewey said he was reasonably certain that there would not have been an attack in Korea if it had been known that the U. S. would fight. "But," he added, "nobody knew."

The governor maintained that "a new generation of politicians . . . can raise the level of national thinking so that it can shape politics which the world will understand and which our unstable and frightened (foreign) friends can trust and . . . stake their lives on."

The nation, Dewey said, is engaged in a desperate struggle for survival. He predicted that the crisis would not end in one year or in five years, "unless we lose in five years."

"We are in a crisis which could go on decade after decade," Dewey said.

Will List Personnel
Washington, July 27 (AP)—The U. S. Office of Education was ordered today to set up a national roster of scientific personnel.

James C. O'Brien, of the National Security Resources Board, will direct the project. Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing said the "national scientific register project" will conduct inventories and make studies of the nation's scientific manpower supply.

Hanley Will Speak
Clinton, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—Lt. Gov. Joe E. Hanley, leading contender for the Republican gubernatorial election, will speak tonight at the G.O.P. state committee's school of politics. Hanley had not been listed as a speaker at the second annual school at Hamilton College. He had been vacationing in Iowa, but he returned to New York state unexpectedly yesterday, a few days ahead of schedule.

Explosion Occurs Near Struck Newspaper Plant
New York, July 27 (AP)—A missile—described by the C.I.O. American Newspaper Guild as firecrackers and by management of the New York World Telegram and Sun as a home-made incendiary device—exploded outside the struck afternoon newspaper plant today.

Part of the plant was smoke-filled, but no one was injured. Members of the Guild have been on strike over wages and other contract benefits since June 13. Union mechanical employees declined to cross the picket lines and the big afternoon daily has not published since that time. Lee E. Wood, editor of the newspaper, said, "a home-made incendiary device, thrown into construction material just outside the main plant exploded. The first floor mail room of the plant and the press room were filled with dense smoke." Wood said the explosion occurred about 20 feet from the picket line area and that police extinguished the fire before flames gained headway in the pressroom where new presses are being installed. Ed Easton, chairman of the Newspaper's Guild unit, described the missile as "a bunch of firecrackers wired together to a stick." He said he would not describe the site of the explosion as in construction material but rather as a piece of plywood leaning against the wall.

Wind carried the smoke into windows of the plant, Easton said. None of 35 to 40 pickets or police on duty at the scene had seen the missile placed he added. He termed the action that of someone with a distorted sense of humor. The missile was described by police and the newspaper management as one constructed in a T-shape, on which were 16 firecrackers, some of the six to eight-inch variety and others of the three-inch type. Police said some of the larger firecrackers exploded, but the smaller ones did not. Police Inspector William McQuade said he did not think it was incendiary or an attempt at sabotage. "Had it been either," McQuade said, "they would have thrown it through the window."

Wood said "I have no evidence that the Guild had any part of this. It would be stupid of them to resort to these tactics." Easton said no one within the Guild would have been guilty of placing the missile. He said it "was a prankster; it was an attempt to besmirch the integrity of the Guild and the strikers."

Air Force Boosts Strength; Plans 69-Group Setup

Washington, July 27 (AP)—The air force is increasing its strength from 48 groups to 58 within 12 months and to 69 groups by January, 1953, Rep. Vinson (D.-Ga.) announced today. The air force is beginning immediately to step up officers and men to a target of 548,311. This is an increase of 136,311 over its strength on June 30, said Vinson, the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

The increase in group and personnel strength is made possible through the air force's allotment of $4,335,500,000 of President Truman's emergency additional budget request of $10,500,000,000.

War Won't Begin With Border Incidents

New York, July 27 (AP)—Hubert E. Howard, chairman of the Munitions Board, U. S. Department of Defense, referring to the Korean situation, said today that "if war ever starts it won't start this way—by border incidents." Howard arrived aboard the liner Gripsholm after attending the third meeting of the military production and supply boards of the North Atlantic Pact Nations in Copenhagen.

He likened the U. S. situation in Korea to that of a forest ranger "in a watch tower in a forest preserve" who can only spot fires and then send someone to put them out. "This nation would have to become a dictatorship," he said, in order to have enough troops and arms to be ready for "every unforeseen outbreak all over the globe."

Howard said the Munitions Board has been preparing for the contingencies of a major war since its establishment in 1947. It works on a "continuing plan," he said, adding, "you cannot make a blueprint for war and put it on a shelf."

Churchill Loses
London, July 27 (AP)—Winston Churchill was defeated by a single vote today in an attempt to force a secret session of the House of Commons for a debate on defense. A motion to clear the galleries was beaten by the Labor Government 296 to 295. Presence of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin who arrived just in time for the voting made the victory possible. He was in the House for the first time since he underwent a rectal operation May 13. The defense debate, in its second and final day, then proceeded before about 300 spectators—all the tiny galleries were full.

Study Is Made Of Ways to Guard New York's Water

New York, July 27 (AP)—Municipal and defense officials have begun a study of protective measures for New York city's water supply in the "present emergency situation."

Edward J. Clark, chief engineer of the water department, said today conferences are under way to consider steps necessary for the protection of the city's water system against possible bombing or other attacks.

During World War 2, water department uniformed guards were stationed in the water sheds, and officials were prepared to offset any damage to aqueducts. Clark said not too much concern was felt about the possibility of chemical poisoning. The department's reserves were reported today at 90.7 per cent of reservoir capacity, compared to 79.5 per cent a year ago.

3,679 Dogs Are Inoculated Free

A total of 3,679 dogs have been inoculated at free clinics sponsored by the Ulster County Health Department and the county Rabies Advisory Council. Clinics have been held in various county locations on six nights since July 18.

The health department estimates there are 11,500 dogs in Ulster county. In order for inoculated dogs to be permitted to run at large, it is required that at least 70 per cent of this number—or a total of 8,050 dogs—receive inoculation.

In addition to the dogs inoculated at these state-aided clinics, other dogs have been inoculated at owners' expense by county veterinarians. The number treated in this way is not available at present, but will be reported to the health department by the veterinarians and will count in figuring the required 70 per cent. Free clinics are scheduled for tonight, July 27, at the Port Ewen Town Garage, the Ruby fire station, the Marlborough fire station and the New Paltz fire station. On the night of July 31, there will be free clinics at Hurley Town Hall, Saugerties, Plettskill and Big Indian fire stations and Cordts Hose station in Kingston. Remaining clinics in various locations will be held August 1, 2, and 10. There will be no additional clinics scheduled after August 10.

Will Join Onteora

Woodstock, July 27 — At a special meeting of the Shady School District, on Wednesday night, attended by 76 qualified voters in the district and others, it was voted that the district would join the Onteora Central School. Of the 76 voting, 56 were for centralization and 20 against the measure.

Ask Street Signs To Help Visitors

Woodstock, July 27 — Complaints about duplication in street names and absence of street signs has prompted the directors of the Business Association to petition the Town Board for a joint meeting to discuss the matter. It is the contention of the Business Association that proper directions cannot be given visitors. The resolution said in part: "There exists a need for naming and labeling the streets and highways to expedite the direction of interested persons seeking the location of residents within the town. We petition your honorable board to meet with the representatives of the Woodstock Business Association for the purpose of selecting and assigning to each street and highway a suitable name and to provide for the erection of posts and signs to display the names selected."

Cerebral Palsy Drive Here Now At $3,000 Mark

Following is the official report of the treasurer of the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Campaign, which currently is being conducted here:

Contributions to the Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Campaign passed the $3,000 mark this week. The generous gift of $500 from the Lions Club of Kingston was the outstanding contribution received from an organization. One of our local good citizens gave $250 individually. Our committee wishes to publicly thank these donors and all who have responded to date to this appeal for funds.

As this is the first appeal which has been made for cerebral palsy funds, there are no local worker groups in most of the towns in Ulster county. Therefore many people will not be solicited personally but are asked at this time to mail in their contributions to the campaign treasurer. One exception is the Town of New Paltz where the Rev. Lee H. Ball organized his own committee which has collected over $450; a part of the $3,000 received in the fund. The Rev. Mr. Ball and his committee are to be congratulated and thanked for the good voluntary job they have done in New Paltz toward this worthy cause.

There are over half a million people affected by cerebral palsy in our country, 200,000 in New York state. We have 52 known cases in Ulster county, 38 of them below the age of 20 years. The treatment is long, costly and requires especially trained therapists to teach them to overcome their muscular disability, to teach them to talk, to teach them to do things that normal children and adults can do almost without thinking.

The Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Association will establish a clinic with your help to treat the existing cases and those which may be affected in the future. The goal is $20,000, as it will cost that to operate an adequate treatment center. You can help by sending your contribution to Oscar J. Lawatsch, Treasurer, Ulster County Cerebral Palsy Campaign, c/o State of New York National Bank, Kingston, N. Y.

Decoy Wallet Pays Off

Chicago (AP)—Four robbers surrounded Ralph De Leon as he sat in a parked car. They demanded money. He took a wallet from his coat pocket and showed it to them. It was empty. The thugs went away. They didn't know that De Leon carries his money in a second wallet that he keeps in a pants pocket.

IT'S ON THE BAG—Hoarders will be marked men if they run afoul of Ernest L. Murphy's one-man, anti-hoarding campaign. Murphy's plan, proposed in Detroit, Mich., is to make the hoarder carry his goods in a specially-marked shopping bag, similar to the one above. This, thinks Murphy, would keep stores from being sacked by war-scared buyers.

THE RUMINATOR

A Column of Contrary Opinion By HUMPHREY E. NEILL

The Ruminator has written many articles in recent months stressing the extreme danger of further inflation. It has been suggested that even a hyper-inflation of the German and French type (as during the 1920's) was not outside the realm of possibility.

The "psychology" of inflation is such that one can never time the moment when renewed inflation will take hold. It has appeared in recent months, however, that very little urging was needed to activate the buying psychology of the public—and start a fast upward price movement.

What would activate it, of course, was unknown. As it turned out, it was the Korea invasion and now we see actual rushing to buy goods. The public at the moment has decided that it wants "things" more than it wants dollars—or future dollars, because people are mortgaging their future incomes far ahead.

It is useless to "ask" people not to buy things. Each person says to himself: "It isn't going to do any harm if I buy a new stove or refrigerator. That certainly isn't hoarding because I need the stove." People rationalize any move they wish to make. If Mrs. Brown buys 100 pounds of sugar, she can find some way to rationalize her purchase and ease her conscience (if she wants to ease it). She probably says to herself that she is responsible for feeding her husband and children so they will be strong and healthy and therefore she simply must have sugar on hand. No doubt she thinks that her husband is needed for important business efforts and thus must have sugar—and so on. So when the President goes on the air to preach to people about hoarding it is so much waste of time in the Ruminator's opinion.

The President would be more honest if he told the people that he wished to avoid controls—on prices and wages (particularly on wages)—until after the elections. But, of course, that is too much forthright honesty to expect from politicians.

The result is that we shall experience murderous inflation until the government finally steps in and clamps on price controls. Then, it will be necessary to "roll back" prices and this will cause confusion and resentment. The upshot will be that black markets will sprout as they have all over the world.

Moreover, the pressure of war manufacturing on our already bloated economy will force us into another inflation later, even if it is held down temporarily by controls.

The Ruminator believes that every reader of this piece should sit down and do some hard thinking about the future because if a hyper-inflation should occur in the future it will take a terrific toll of the middle classes. The time to prepare for the future is the present.

Unfortunately, there are no hard and set rules to follow to hedge against inflation. First of all each person has to consider his own situation. Those living in the country have a different problem from those living in industrial areas. The country person is better off, because he can plan for aiding his living from the soil. If he hasn't any land now he can shop around thoughtfully and find some modest acreage.

The city dweller—if he cannot add some country land to his holdings—needs to calculate how he can add to his earnings to offset the loss in purchasing power of his dollars as inflation mounts. If he rents property perhaps he can arrange to buy, with the hope of paying off the mortgages with cheaper dollars later.

Common stocks are not a sure hedge because one can never see ahead far enough to know what will happen to corporations. Some will be forced out of business because of the increased costs of doing business. Corporations whose fixed assets are heavily committed in natural resources—land, mines, oil wells, and so on—are likely to come through a hyper-inflation better than some others. But again it must be acknowledged that there is no sure hedge. As an example, gold mines had to shut down during the past war and so their stocks fell off in price. One needs to analyze keenly in respect to common stocks.

That is the pity and sobering feature about inflation—it is an insidious thing that creeps up on one unexpectedly and turns out also unexpectedly.

Detective Takes Own Life, Is Story

New York, July 27 (AP)—On off-duty detective, a hero last Saturday when he saved his wife and three small children from their burning home, shot and killed himself early today.

He was Francis J. McKee, 38, a first-grade detective attached to the 67th squad, Snyder avenue station, Brooklyn.

The shooting took place outside the home of McKee's brother-in-law, Harry Blair, at 150 Ocean-side avenue, Breezy Point, Queens, a waterfront summer resort.

Police said McKee and his wife, Virginia, were attending a party at Blair's home. Shortly after midnight, McKee walked out of the house and was followed by Blair.

Both Blair and Mrs. McKee said the detective had been uninvolved since last week-end when a serious fire swept the McKee home at 756 E. 21st street, Brooklyn.

Blair said he followed McKee to an adjacent parking lot and asked his brother-in-law what was wrong and if he could help. Blair quoted McKee as saying "Please don't bother me."

When Blair turned his back, he said, he heard a shot. McKee had sent a bullet into his head from his .38-calibre service revolver.

Detective Inspector John J. Appel said McKee, on the police force 14 years, had an excellent record. Police said they are conducting an investigation of the shooting.

Airline Copilot Keeps Woman Alive on Plane

New York, July 27 (AP)—Constant first aid by an airplane copilot helped to keep alive a woman passenger who fainted and failed to respond to oxygen treatment as the plane flew over Manhattan.

The airman breathed into the woman's mouth and applied artificial respiration until the plane returned to La Guardia Field.

Five minutes after taking off, Mrs. Mary Hope Weir, 22, became unconscious aboard a Trans World Airlines.

Mrs. Weir, a Los Angeles nurse, was homeward bound. She had been flown back from Paris Tuesday for further treatment to a head injury suffered abroad in an auto accident.

The plane was over the George Washington Bridge when Mrs. Weir collapsed. Oxygen played aboard the liner for her use failed to revive her.

First Officer Vernon J. Olson of New Hyde Park, N. Y., breathed into her mouth and applied artificial respiration as the

Rockland Farmers Bring Back Produce

New City, N. Y., July 27 (AP)—William J. Clark, Rockland county agent of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, said today that farmers in this area are being offered such low prices on the New York city wholesale market that many bring their produce back home.

During the past week, Clark said, farmers have been offered 25 to 30 cents, and on rare occasions 75 cents, for a container of cabbage.

The containers alone, Clark said, cost the farmer 15 cents each, he pays a 10 per cent commission fee, trucking costs and the containers each hold 12 to 15 heads of superior grade cabbage.

plane sped back to La Guardia. At the airport, the woman was revived by a pulmonologist. An ambulance took her to a hospital.

The incident, which occurred Tuesday, was revealed last night by Port of New York Authority Police at the airport.

Today, at Presbyterian Hospital, Mrs. Weir's condition was described as satisfactory.

All Folded Back

New Haven, Conn., July 27 (AP)—Some subscribers of the New Haven Journal had the answer today on why they received their morning paper folded backward. There really was no mystery. The newsboy who delivered the paper was a brother of Sgt. William Kelly, a member of a national guard anti-aircraft battalion which has been called to active duty August 14. Sgt. Kelly's picture appeared on the back page of the newspaper.

Secret Work Is Done

New York, July 27 (AP)—The navy is experimenting with modern weapons right in the heart of New York city—but nobody gets hurt. Top secret research in problems involving guided missiles is being conducted here with the aid of a mathematical computing machine, the navy revealed yesterday. From figures produced by the machine, scientists can tell what a certain guided missile will do in flight—even though the missile doesn't exist except on paper.

Price Resistance Halts Retail Pork Price Advance

(By The Associated Press)

Consumer price resistance halted the month-long advance of retail pork prices this week and some cuts dropped 10 to 30 cents a pound in competitive supermarkets.

Other meats held about steady. Frying and broiling chickens were unchanged to up six cents a pound. Eggs advanced one to six cents a dozen.

Sheffield Farms, a National Dairy Products Corp. subsidiary, announced milk would go up one to 1 1/2 cents a quart on August 1 in most of the New York metropolitan area.

War-scare buying of some food staples continued. Sales of sugar, particularly, were far above normal even for the canning season. Stores in many areas were being cleaned out of their sugar supplies soon after opening their doors each day.

Most refiners conceded their working inventories of refined sugar are all but exhausted—but spokesmen hastened to add that the shortage is only in the supply pipeline not in raw sugar stocks which are reported ample. Several refineries are operating at 24 prices of pork went too high, too fast. Last week-end, shoppers started staying away from pork in droves. Supplies backed up, and prices had to be trimmed to move the backlog. Pork may firm up a little by this week-end, though, because overall demand for meat continues brisk.

Aside from pork, the only other items lower priced in most places were in the produce departments. Blueberries, broccoli, carrots, celery, sweet corn, pears, oranges and grapefruit. Good quality lettuce and ripe tomatoes were a little higher than last week-end, and an Agriculture Department marketing specialist said it may be a couple more weeks before tomatoes will be in liberal supply. The crop was delayed this year by unfavorable weather in many growing sections.

Stronger Food Demand
Taking a long look at food prospects for the next six months, the department's production and marketing administration said the principal effect of the Korean situation is likely to be a stronger food demand as employment and consumer incomes rise with a speeded defense program. Military food purchases are not expected to have much effect on demand or supplies this year.

"Prospects for food supplies and consumer and military demand point to slightly higher retail prices for food, but in the next five months prices are not likely to go more than three or four per cent above the July level," the summary said. "The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week climbed eight cents from a week ago to $6.49—highest since October 5, 1948. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 general use foods—and 21 of those were higher this week. The index has risen almost nine per cent since the Korean outbreak, and is 13.3 per cent above a year ago."

by

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company

We will resist all unwarranted price rises with all our might.

We will make every effort to hold our inventories at the lowest point consistent with good service to our customers, because hoarding, whether by wholesalers, retailers or consumers, will cause higher prices.

We will continue to maintain the lowest profit rate generally prevailing in the entire retail industry. Our net profit now is less than one cent on each dollar of sales.

We will continue to strive for more efficient distribution.

We will fight waste of food, or time, or money all along the line so as to narrow the spread between wholesale and retail prices.

We will devote all our energies to giving you the most good food for your money every day of the week.

We will strive always to do what is honest, fair, sincere and in the best interest of our country and our customers.

As most of you know, this company and the low cost, low profit policies that built it are under attack.

We are defending ourselves against a suit brought by the anti-trust lawyers to put A&P out of business.

But the greater conflict in which our country is now engaged takes precedence over all else.

We promise the American people that we will cooperate unhesitatingly with our national government in the present crisis.

Milk Distributors Announce Boosts

New York, July 27 (AP)—Major milk distributors here and in Syracuse, N. Y., yesterday announced increases in retail costs, along with price boosts to dairymen under a new marketing formula.

In the New York area, store and wholesale prices of milk, buttermilk and chocolate drink will advance one cent per quart. Home deliveries go up one and one-half cents. Heavy cream will increase two cents per half pint. Light cream one cent per half pint.

The price rises become effective Aug. 1. The retail price rise announcement was coincidental with a statement by C. J. Blanford, milk marketing area administrator. He announced that dairymen would get an August price of $4.92 per hundredweight (about 47 quarts) for fluid (class 1A) milk.

Based on Formula. The new price is based for the first time on a formula approved by milked dairymen in a referendum last February. Considered in the computation are such factors as the wholesale commodity price index, the supply and demand for fluid milk, and seasonal adjustments.

The fluid milk price formerly was figured on the price of butter and the price of milk powder. However, that formula was inoperative from March through July when minimum prices were set by federal and state agricultural authorities.

Blanford said prices would be announced on the 25th of each month for the following month.

The new farm price for milk for ordinary home and restaurant use compares to that of $4.58 last month and $5.24 in August, 1949.

Increases Are Cited
In announcing the price rises here, Sheffield Farms and Borden's said the retail boost was based on increased prices paid to dairy farmers.

The milk costs in this area apply to New York city, Westchester county and Long Island. Currently, quart bottles of approved milk (formerly known as Grade B) retail at 16 cents, in paper containers at 15 cents. The same milk in paper containers will go from 16 1/2 to 17 1/2 cents.

Quart bottles of homogenized milk will rise from 16 1/2 to 17 1/2 cents and the same product in paper containers will rise from 17 to 18 cents. Cream will rise from one to two cents, depending on grades.

Grange News

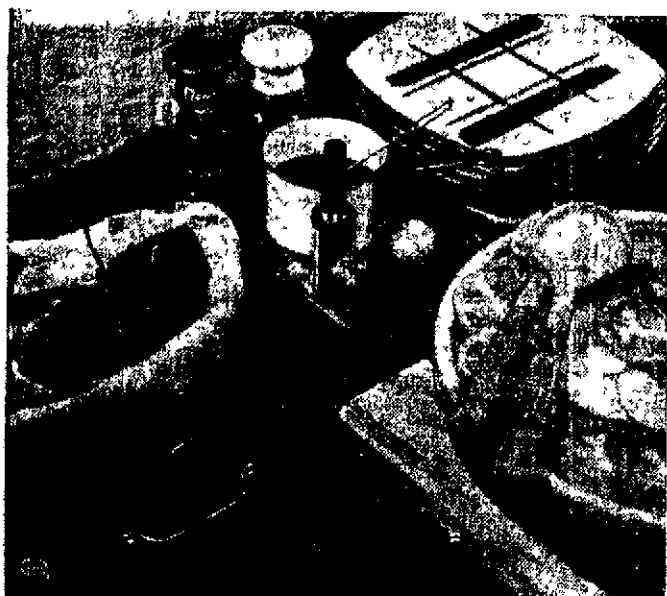

KOREAN WAR will put its mark on our agricultural economy just as certainly and effectively as it will influence all of our industrial thinking, action and results. We may be sure that farm prices and farm costs will rise, and plans for curtailing production will undoubtedly be scrapped. Without having fully recovered from one wartime economy, we will soon be up to our necks in another, probably quite different in its aspects. Best guess seems to be that because we have some food reserves and production is still high, and with not so great an export demand as in previous wars, prices will not rise as rapidly as farmers' costs. A long war, of course, will upset present forecasts. However, we look at it, a general belt-tightening is in order all around.

TRAFFIC, at least on last year's record-breaking opening day, was State Fair's prime headache. We are glad of assurances that this situation has been corrected by installing new entrances, roads to and from the Syracuse grounds, augmented bus service and information booths. State Grange made an issue of this last year, and we applaud the action of Fair officials in eliminating the hazardous problem.

COMMUNITY SERVICE projects, according to National Master A. S. Goss, are directly related to membership gains. Figures which the Washington office is able to compile, definitely prove that where there is Grange interest in community service work, there you will always find growing, vigorous Granges. SAUCE IMPROVES CHARCOAL STEAK

CHARCOAL BROILER, steak, tabasco barbecue sauce, bowl of salad—here's an outdoor party de luxe!

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Staff Writer

For the outdoor steak broiling, there's nothing like a man. Men seem to shine at broiling steak over charcoal and with many handy and inexpensive barbecue grills on the market this summer, a lot of men are going to be very happy.

Most amateur chefs pride themselves on their sauce. Here's a variation of barbecue sauce not so heavy as to kill the flavor of good meat but zesty enough to bring out all its goodness. Its chief ingredient is Tabasco.

Tabasco Steak Sauce
(Yield: 2 1/2 cup sauce)
One clove garlic, 1/2 cup salad oil, 3 tablespoons lime juice, 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco, 1/4 teaspoon salt.

If desired, put garlic to soak in the oil the day before the barbecue. Combine all ingredients in small saucepan, and mix well. Brush over steak and broil over hot coals.

Here's another good recipe for the amateur chef:

Tabasco Hamburger
(6 servings)

One and one-half pounds ground beef, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 2 teaspoons water, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon Tabasco, 2 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine.

Form meat into individual patties or one large cake. Pan fry or broil meat. When meat is desired degree of doneness, transfer to hot platter. Combine remaining ingredients; mix until smooth. Turn into saucepan or skillet and stir until butter or margarine is melted. Pour over meat.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Melon, scrambled eggs with fried tomato rings, enriched toast, butter or fortified margarine, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, macaroni and cheese, cole slaw, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, stewed blackberries, cookies, iced tea, milk.

OUTDOOR DINNER: Charcoal broiled steak or hamburgers, Tabasco barbecue sauce, sliced sweet onions, tomatoes, garlic French bread, watermelon, iced coffee, milk.

for a common project is sure to spread—put it to work for your Grange.

MILK is a favorite subject of ours, and the dairy industry accounts for more than half of all farm income in our state. So perhaps a criticism that came our way recently was justified, namely, that we seem to overlook the very important fruit, vegetable and poultry crops. We are very much aware of them, however, and hasten to point out that apples, peaches and pears are going to be much in demand this fall and winter, since 1950 crops are substantially less than last year's. Wet weather makes it hard to spray, and winter killing did some damage. Cherries, both sweet and sour, and grapes will be in good supply in all areas. None of these fruits are our favorites—we like them all.

Injunction Suit Filed Against Local Firm

New York, July 27 (Special)—An injunction under the Fair

Labor Standards Act was sought Wednesday in U. S. District Court here against Kingsley Fashions, Inc., of Kingston, and its president, Samuel W. Siegel, of 277 Albany avenue Kingston, by

Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin. According to the injunction suit, the company, which has its main plant at 175 Cornell street in Kingston and a local branch, has employed people since August, 1948, for more than 40 hours a week without paying them the required time-and-a-half for the hours over 40. The suit also charges that the firm has failed to keep adequate records of its employees since August, 1948. The firm manufactures women's wear.

THE KINGSTON SOUVENIR SPOON
The Story of the Spoon is connected and shown in eight subjects, and together with the work on back of bowl makes this spoon unique as a souvenir.
On the back—PETRUS STUYVESANT (Colonial Governor, 1647-1664) having laid the foundation of the future Kingston, that closely followed the lines of THE OLD STOCKADE (1638) for a hundred years and having made peace with the Indians, typified by the WAMPUN BELT, points prophetically to the Greater Kingston (CITY SEAL shown) that has developed three hundred years afterward.
On the front—THE SENATE HOUSE (in the bowl) was the FIRST CAPITOL of New York and marks the beginnings of the State at Kingston, where, on July 30, 1777, was inaugurated the First Governor, Major General GEORGE CLINTON. From the guiding hand of this seven times Governor has emanated the Empire State, typified by the SEAL OF THE STATE.
ORIGIN OF SUBJECTS shown on the Spoon:
STOCKADE—Old map by the Rev. John Miller, 1695.
WAMPUN BELT—One in the County Clerk's Office.
STUYVESANT—Head from Medal commemorating the 250th Anniversary of the founding of Kingston.
CITY SEAL—From actual impression of the Seal.
CLINTON—From bronze tablet on the Ulster Co. Court House, Kingston, site of the first inauguration as Governor.

Good Taste Today

DIVORCED PARENTS AT WEDDING

One of the few remaining complications of divorce is explained in the following letter: "My fiancée's parents are divorced and we don't know exactly how they should be seated at the wedding breakfast. Ordinarily, the four parents would be seated together at one table. He says they are friendly enough to be put at one table, but there also is a question of each one having a present mate who is coming. Will you please offer a suggestion?"
Even though they are friendly, seat each with their personal friends.

Son's Absent Fiancée

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to marry a girl who lives in a distant state. We have never met her or her family. (1) To whom should I write letters acknowledging the engagement? (2) Should we announce it too in our papers here? (3) Should the family together or which ones send the girl engagement gifts and what kind?
Answer: (1) You should write a letter to the girl's mother after having written first to the girl (2) Yes (3) There's no rule exacting an engagement gift but presents are always appreciated.

Compliments Unseemly

Dear Mrs. Post: My husband thinks it is unseemly for any woman to compliment a man other than her husband, or a relative. He has taken great exception to my having said a few nice things to a business and personal friend of his whom he sometimes brings home to dinner. Why "That's a most becoming tie, John" or "You should always have a tan!" is in bad taste because a woman says it to a man instead of vice versa, I can't understand. Maybe you know the difference.
Answer: Surely you can say plenty of nice things either man or woman. I do agree with your husband about discussing the becomingness of his tie or the color of his clothes as being rather too personal to be in good taste. Neither is it in good taste for a man to make personal remarks about a woman's appearance except on very rare occasions.

Details for second marriages for widows and divorcees are given in Mrs. Post's leaflet, E-8, also included are suggestions for a small wedding at moderate expense. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. To obtain a copy, send 5 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to her, care of the Kingston Daily Freeman, P.O. Card Brings Trouble

Haifa, Israel (AP)—Sometimes courtesy doesn't pay. The police here received a postcard from Zvi Glass, who had escaped from prison. He thanked the police for their "attentive treatment" and said he was about to leave Israel. The police took a look around, found Glass in a Haifa cafe and took him back to prison.

Record Tourist Crop

Tel Aviv, Israel (AP)—A record tourist business is forecast for Israel this spring and summer. Dr. Werner Bloch, director of the government tourist bureau, predicted 30,000 travelers would arrive in this little Jewish state. The total visitors in 1949 was 21,981.

Master of Music

He was graduated in 1940 from Kingston High School, and studied piano with Lina M. Schmidt (Korn), 211 Washington avenue, playing in many recitals. He will be remembered by many for his joint recital with David Donald Hicks as duo-pianists in 1940. He attended the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, spent three and a half years in the Navy as assistant chaplain, and was graduated from New York University in 1948. He has accepted a position as music instructor at a college in Modesto, Calif., and will specialize in teaching piano and voice.

Jr. League Exchange Will Remain Open Saturday Afternoons

The Junior League Exchange, 288 Clinton avenue, announced today that it would be open Saturdays from noon until 4 p. m., throughout the summer. The exchange sells good used clothing, jewelry, gifts, food, hand-craft articles, antiques and other items. Since its opening June 1, the Exchange's business hours have been in the afternoons, Monday through Friday, and Friday evening. The managers of the Exchange have now decided, however that by staying open on Saturday, they would attract weekend tourists who might be interested in the antique department, or the thrift shop in clothes.

Also, the Saturday hours could "prove a boon to maidless housewives who want to place orders for home-made cakes or pies for the week-end," the Exchange announcement said.

Harpist Receives Ovation at Concert Last Night; Quartet Called 'Masterly'

The Woodstock String Quartet gave the third in its series of summer concerts in Kingston last night.

In the first work of the program, which will be given also in Woodstock Friday evening, Engelbert Roentgen, cellist of the quartet, together with Ilse Sasa, pianist, presented the cello sonata in one movement by Hure.

Mr. Roentgen's suave tone and impeccable playing, aided by the able and knowing support of the pianist, succeeded in putting over a piece that is in itself undistinguished music. Miss Sasa already known to this audience for her brilliant playing with the quartet last summer, was warmly acclaimed for her performance, as was also the master of the cello.

The middle portion of the program provided a treat indeed in the wonderful performance of the harpist, Marcelle De Gray, Young and comely, in filmy white, she offered a feast to the eye as well as to the ear. She played with admirable beauty of tone, clarity, and dexterity the gay "Harmonious Blacksmith" by Handel, a caprice by Pjerner, Liszt's "Dream of Love," and the beautiful "Fountain" by Zabel, achieving a most wonderful effect in the last named piece.

After the Pjerner number she gave a brief historical and technical explanation of the harp, well delivered and illuminating.

After her performance, she received a real ovation and graciously responded with the "Swiss Music Box."

The concluding number of the program was the Debussy quartet in G minor, opus 10. It was given a stirring, masterly performance. Played like this, it is easy to understand the real greatness of Debussy and the new life he infused into French music. The four members of the quartet had to come to the platform repeatedly to acknowledge the applause of their delightful audience.—I.K.D.

Benedictine Announces New Parking Arrangement

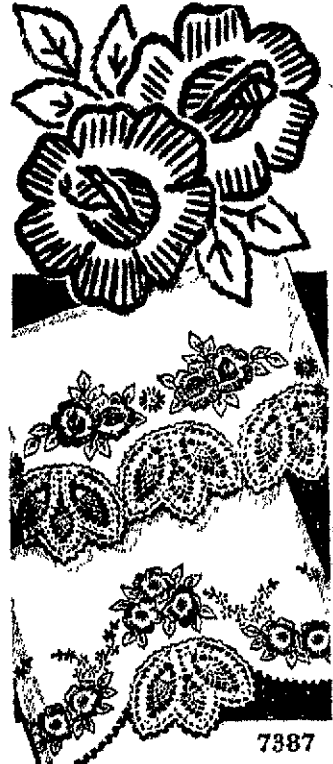

The Benedictine Hospital today issued the following instructions for parking near the hospital during construction work on the new addition:

While construction is going on, the visitors to the hospital are asked to please park their cars on Mary's avenue and not attempt to park directly in the space in front of the hospital.

They are requested to leave the space in front of the hospital for the doctors and clergymen attending patients. The reason for this request is that the road that goes around the hospital, as well as the road to the ambulance entrance will now be dead ends.

It is necessary to make the hospital accessible to the doctors and clergymen who are attending patients, so that we ask the public to please park their cars on Mary's avenue instead of in front of the hospital.

'January Thaw' Will Be Shown at Cragmoor Theatre

As the sixth attraction of its season, the Cragmoor Playhouse will present "January Thaw" for one week beginning Tuesday. The comedy hit of the 1946 Broadway season, "January Thaw" was dramatized by William Roos from the best selling novel by Bellamy Partridge. The initial Broadway production was given under the aegis of Michael Todd.

Frank Overton, Peggy Loft, George Wolf, Robert Wright and Lathrop Mitchell will head the cast of the play which will be shown Tuesday through Sunday evenings with a matinee on Sunday.

One of the funniest situations comedies about the housing shortage, "January Thaw" deals with a family which has bought an old Connecticut home and modernized it, spending all its money in the process. Without warning, the old New England couple who originally owned the house, makes an appearance and calmly informs the new occupants that they have the right to remain there for as long as they live (and that their families live to be 90).

The cold war which develops between the two families living under the same roof, one with its ideas in the past and the other modern, plus the complication of a love interest between two of their children, make "January Thaw" a hilarious evening in the theatre.

A new feature at Cragmoor starting this week is the low priced Sunday matinee, at which all seats are only one dollar plus tax. This innovation has been made because of the large number of requests for such a change.

Meanwhile, "Born Yesterday," the riotous comedy which ran five years on Broadway, continues at Cragmoor through Sunday evening with a matinee on Sunday afternoon.

Benedictine

Humanity" and of that, he asked: What is finer? What is greater? What is more noble?"

Senator Wicks could not attend the ground breaking, the Judge said because of the pressure of state business, but "I know the senator wants to extend hearty congratulations and best wishes. He has always been helpful, he said, in any movement for the benefit of humanity."

Dr. Bush said it was generally thought 25 years ago when the hospital "underwent a major expansion" that it would be good for all time but the years since have brought lack of facilities not generally realized by the public.

Kaufman Explains Part
George F. Kaufman, who headed the 1945 fund drive, explained his part in that and stressed that the results achieved were due to "the combined efforts of people of all denominations."

This, he said, was "a good thing for the hospital, and the fact it was so well and unselfishly done, was a much better thing for all America."

The speaker stressed that the Benedictine Sisters, past and present, deserve praise and thanks "from all of us," and the building will stand as "Our way of saying: Well done good and faithful servants. More than to any others, he said, it will stand as a monument to Sister Berenice and Sister Calista. One feasible means of raising the money needed, he suggested, was by gifts, through will or otherwise."

Joseph E. Hong, representing friends of the hospital, said he spent time in the hospital on two occasions, and "can speak well of the entire staff." He found a "warmth and friendliness," there he said, and stressed that "We of this area should consider ourselves very fortunate, that we have a laboratory, tumor clinic and fine hospitals. The time has come for expansion, he added, and he advised that "we should do all in our power to support this necessary project."

Progression Is Stressed
Dr. Bourke said the 49 years of the hospital represented "one of the most progressive periods in basic and medical science," and in this time the public "has gained confidence in hospital service."

He was hopeful, he said, that the program of cooperative planning which his department represents, would continue in the interest of service and the best quality of care. He extended congratulations and best wishes for the completion.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk contrasted the ground breaking with the war in the Far East. "In Korea life is being destroyed, while plans in our community are being made to save life," he said.

The undertaking to help others, the mayor said, "is not a small one. It is one that has been given considerable amount of thought, one that needed courage to push forward, and one that needed planning for financing."

Referring to the 1945 drive in which $250,000 was raised, the mayor said: "If we were to call for hands of the people here today, who contributed to the fund, I feel that everyone's hand would be raised." The mayor praised the board of directors and Msgr. Drury for their efforts, and he said the people of Kingston "are fortunate in having the needed facilities for the care of the sick supplied to our community."

My dear Friends of the Benedictine Hospital:
For the Benedictine Hospital this is a day of gratitude and on behalf of the Sisters of St. Benedict, the professional staff and the entire personnel, I wish this day to give expression to that gratitude.

First of all, we are grateful to Almighty God for His divine providence with which He has watched over this hospital from the beginning. We are grateful to Our Lady of Victory under whose patronage this hospital has been placed, for the care and solicitude which She has shown it. We are grateful to His Eminence, Cardinal Spellman, for his wise counsel and for making available to us the services of the hospital department of Catholic Charities, as well as the services of the Diocesan Consultants for Construction.

We are grateful too to Robert T. Lansdale and his associates of the New York State Joint Survey and Planning Commission, to Mr. Capers of the Regional Commission, to Doctor Bourke, Mr. Cederberg and Mr. Carroll who have aided us in meeting the requirements outlined by the federal government for receiving federal aid. One can readily understand that in dealing with federal and state agencies, it is of utmost importance that contacts be made through competent and proper channels.

Praise for Senator
The Benedictine Hospital has been fortunate in having such a good friend as Senator Wicks, who has been ever ready to assist us in the matter. Like us, this hospital, serving the community, has the help and assistance and advice of the city government. There are all kinds of problems which affect both the hospital and the city involved in a project of this kind, and the hospital authorities are indeed grateful to Mayor Newkirk who has more than gone out of his way to help us solve these problems.

On an occasion of this kind, when we are actually breaking ground for the new building, we are happy to express to Judge Kaufman, the committee of workers who worked with him in the successful drive for funds which we had a few years ago and to all those who contributed to the campaign, for they have in a large measure made it possible for us to see this day. The Benedictine Hospital has had a host of friends and supporters throughout its many years, and on an occasion such as this, I can not pass by without recalling "in grateful memory Mr. Philip Eiting, who did so much towards making this hospital what it is today. We wish to express our gratitude to all this vast host who have supported and cooperated with this hospital and made it possible for us to begin this new project of expansion.

Has Gone Long Way
The Benedictine Hospital has gone a long way since 1901 when a little band of four Benedictine Sisters under the leadership of Sister Aloysia, opened its doors for the first time in those two little houses on West Chestnut street. During these 49 years of service, the Sisters have borne the burden of the cost of operation and are now assuming the debt to give adequate and expanded services to those who knock on their door for help. These 49 years have been years of complete sacrifice on the part of the Sisters. In these days of high salaries and shortened hours, the Sisters still labor for their mere sustenance 24 hours a day, seven days a week, every week of the year. Many are the times that they are called to rise from their sleep to minister to those who have been stricken with sudden illness or accident and demand instant and emergency care. What they have not taken in salary they have put back into the hospital in order to meet the expense of its operation and expansion. They have indeed been 49 years of supreme sacrifice given continuously to everyone alike, no matter what his color, race or creed.

In undertaking this project, the hospital is now assuming a tremendous debt. Together with the funds which we have saved, the money received in the Drive, the bequests that have been made by many who have passed away, (may the Lord rest their souls), and the grant of the federal government, we still have to assume a debt of $450,000. This is indeed a tremendous debt for the hospital to undertake, but at the same time, the Sisters and the hospital authorities feel that undertaking this project of expansion at this time is imperative. The need for beds and hospital care is so demanding, that in spite of the fact that we will have to worry about this debt, public service and the imperative need of that service demands that we take this chance. It is only because we have supreme confidence in the public which has always assisted and cooperated with us, that we have the courage to face this debt, and we have equal confidence that those who have been so loyal and cooperated with us in the past, will in the future assist us in liquidating or at least bringing this debt under reasonable control.

Golden Jubilee
Next year, the year 1951, will mark the Golden Jubilee of this hospital. In this Golden Jubilee year, with the help of God, we will lay the cornerstone of this new wing. It will crown the work of Sister Aloysia and the little band of Sisters who opened the doors of this hospital to the service of the public 50 years ago. It will be a tribute to the sacrifices of all the Sisters who have labored here and to their many friends who have cooperated with them. It will also mark the time when this crushing debt of $450,000 will become most burdensome. It will be then that the Sisters will be in urgent need of financial help, but we are facing that day with every confidence of success, that next year, the golden jubilee year, when the Sisters come to the public with an appeal and make another drive for funds to meet this debt, the public will respond with the same generosity as it has always done in the past.

Sandwich Filling
For a delicious sandwich filling, mix half a cup of ground cooked ham with a half cup of finely cut celery, a small package of cream cheese and a little minced green pepper or parsley. Serve with lettuce and mayonnaise between whole-wheat bread slices.

Milk is called a "protective" food because it provides nutrients that we must have if we are to maintain our health.

Many fine bargains in Cameras and Equipment for your vacation memories.

Colonial Baseball Inc. Reiterates Stand OB Is Good for Kingston

Points Out League Folded Not Locals; Planning for 1951

Will Try Series Of Semi-Pro Contests

While faithful Colonial rooters awaited the semi-pro special between the Paterson Silk Sox and Mount Vernon Red Sox—with Max Goldsmith, Al Ferony and Andy Karl—Saturday night at municipal stadium, Colonial City Baseball Inc. president, Addison Jones, pointed out in a letter to The Freeman:

"Colonial City Baseball Inc., a locally owned and financed corporation held the Kingston franchise in the Colonial League. The officers and directors made every effort to induce the Colonial League to continue. The Kingston club was the last one to dispose of its players. We had the best public support of any club in the league, but the professional team had to be disbanded after the league ceased to exist.

"An effort will be made to continue one or two games a week as a semi-pro club," Jones continued. "A game is scheduled for this coming Saturday night. The attendance will have an important bearing on future games. If the attendance is large enough to cover actual expenses, additional games will be booked. The club benefits game scheduled for August 26 at which an outstanding merchandise award will be made, will be played whether or not other games are scheduled."

Will Continue In OB Jones concluded his letter by reiterating his faith in organized ball.

"We believe that organized baseball is beneficial to Kingston. There is a possibility that Colonial City Baseball Inc. can acquire a franchise in another league in 1951. Every effort will be made to complete arrangements to bring that about."

Meanwhile, the return of Max Goldsmith, brilliant catcher of the 1948 Colonials, and Al Ferony, creating a stir among local fans. Goldsmith bowed out of organized baseball after his sale by Ted Laviano to the Philadelphia Phillies. Goldsmith and Laviano became involved in an argument over the sales price and other arrangements. The brilliant catcher has remained active in independent ball.

Biggest name on the Mount Vernon roster is Anton Karl, former Philadelphia Phillies relief specialist who set a club record with 63 relief appearances in one season.

Stymie May Bid For All-Time High

New York, July 27 (AP)—Trainer Hirsch Jacobs said Stymie, second leading money-winner of all time, would be shipped to Middleburg, Va., today to begin training for a possible comeback.

"If he can win one dollar more than Citation I'll be satisfied," Jacobs said. "If he doesn't train, we're not out anything."

Citation topped Stymie's record this year, with total winnings of $938,639. Stymie retired last year with earnings of $818,485.

Plan Giant TV Boxing Hookup

New York, July 27 (AP)—Television, blamed for many of boxing's box office failures, is responsible for the most ambitious big-time fight program in history.

To meet the demands of the TV audiences, the International Boxing Club plans to run 70 or 72 indoor shows in the 1950-51 season. There will be action every Wednesday and Friday for at least 35 consecutive weeks.

The IBC and Managers Guild have reached a new agreement on Wednesday night, separate from their Friday night pact. On Wednesday nights, each main go lighter will receive $1,000 as his share of the TV money. On Friday's each star bout boy gets $2,250 with a privilege of a percentage.

Wednesday programs will originate at St. Nicholas Arena in New York, Chicago and St. Louis. There will be five shows in St. Louis and 10 each in the other three cities.

All 35 Friday night programs will originate in New York, 24 in Madison Square Garden and 11 at St. Nicholas Arena. Two additional Garden shows may be added next June.

The IBC and Garden Corporation will collect about $750,000 for TV and radio rights. Of this sum the fighters will receive around $227,500. This, of course, does not include their share of the actual gate receipts. All figures are confirmed to the radio and TV money.

A new attempt will be made today to close the third Willie Pep-Sandy Saddler bout for the featherweight title. Lou Vassal, Pep's manager, returned from Hartford, Conn., last night for a huddle with Al Weill, IBC matchmaker.

for the Paterson Silk Sox, is one of the "name" semi-pro hurlers in the Met district. He served with the Bushwicks for several seasons.

Back in the 1920s, the Silk Sox were one of the country's finest semi-pro aggregations and defeated a number of major league teams in exhibitions. Howie Lohr and Bonnie Borgmann were big names on the Paterson roster. To date the Sox have won 18 out of 24 starts.

Philips Tremark, a widely publicized rookie with the Dodgers in the late 1930s, is scheduled to appear in the outfield for the Westchester county aggregation. The Silk Sox had a highly successful season in 1949 when they won 38 and lost only 7. The name of the Paterson Silk Sox will long be remembered by baseball fans throughout the East.

Major League Roundup

By JACK HAND (Associated Press Sports Writer)

Sad Sam Zolask, ticketed for San Diego in May, has pitched Cleveland to within 1½ games of the American League lead with three relief wins in a week.

They actually handed Zolask a career to the Pacific Coast League on out-down day. At the last minute, Hank Greenberg, Tribe general manager, changed his mind. Johnny Bernardino, veteran infielder, went to San Diego instead of Sam. Hankus never will be sorry.

Zolask helped Manager Lou Boudreau's staff all season. But up to last Thursday he had only a 1 record. Five brilliant relief innings at Philadelphia, July 20, started him on the way. Saturday night at Washington he picked up another victory, rescuing Early Wynn.

When Mike Garcia was knocked out of the box in the third inning of last night's game with the A's, Zolask came in. He held Philadelphia to two hits the rest of the way for a 6-2 decision.

Tigers In Slump
The Red Sox made it two straight over Detroit yesterday, 1-0, on Bobby Doerr's home run and Mel Parnell's five-hit pitching. It was the fifth loss in the last six starts for the Tigers.

Parnell, a 25-game winner last year, went the route for the first time since July 1. The Red Sox left-handeder, troubled by a sore shoulder, took heat treatments at a hospital only four hours before game time. Art Houtteman was the losing pitcher.

Joe DiMaggio, making a late summer comeback, slugged a two-run homer to help the Yanks whip St. Louis, 6-3.

Rookie Ed Ford, knocked out in the sixth after five shutout innings, picked up his second win with Tom Ferrick's help.

Rain postponed the Washington at Chicago game in the third inning.

Phillies Win
The Phillies scored six runs in the sixth inning against Chicago to increase their National League lead to 1½ games with a 6-4 win. Walt Dubiel took a 4-0 edge into the sixth but blew the game with six walks and two hits. Five of the walks were in succession, only one short of the National League record. Carmen Mauro's double and Hank Sauer's single off Russ Meyer broke a string of 27 scoreless innings for the Cubs in the first.

Musial Continues
Brooklyn clinched the season series with St. Louis, with a 7-3 triumph that made it 12 out of 17.

this year. Switch Hitter Jim Russell hit two homers, one right-handed and one left-handed, to lead the Brooks—the first off-lead Harry Brecheen, a southpaw, and the second off Red Munger, a right-hander.

Stan Musial hit safely in his 30th straight game with a double and single off winner Don Newcombe, who hasn't lost to St. Louis all year. Ralph Branca replaced him after he walked the first batter in the ninth.

Pittsburgh teed off on Vern Bickford and Bob Hogue for 13 hits, including homers by Wally Westlake and Ray Mueller, to thump the Boston Braves, 8-4. All but two of the Pirate runs, and both homers, were off loser Bickford, who had won his last six starts.

Sal Maglie pitched and batted the New York Giants to their seventh straight win, 3-2, over Cincinnati. Maglie singled off Howie Fox to score Al Dark with the tie-breaking run in the seventh.

Athletic Field and the Pee-wee and Junior divisions respectively in the Kingston Athletic Association's summer baseball program.

The Stadium terrors hold a high game edge over the Athletic Field in the Pee-wee League, with four wins and a setback, while the Athletic Field No. 1's record of four straight puts them a game ahead of Stadium No. 1 in the Junior competition.

A pair of two-hit pitching performances featured this week's competition, with Elvin Rose of the Stadium, tripping the Athletic Field 8 to 1.

H. Osterhout of the Stadium permitted only two hits while his team was romping over Cornell Park, 20 to 6.

Palmer Brodhead and Ed Hurst rapped doubles to spark the stadium's 8-1 victory. Joe Pino, the losing hurler, was nicked for eight hits. The Stadium scored in each of the six innings it batted.

The Stadium came up with 13 runs in the first inning to crush Cornell Park 20 to 6. The winners made only 10 hits off R. Bell and D. Boun but 11 Cornell miscues caused their path.

Palmer Brodhead rapped a triple and Joe Malkie had a homer for the winners. Osterhout gave up only two hits.

Athletic Field racked up 18 runs in the first two innings—ten in the first and eight in the second—to rout Cornell, 22 to 8, behind the six-hit pitching of Bell and Boun. Jim Jackson went all the way for Cornell, yielding 11 safeties. D. Davis had a double for the winners.

Lucas and Jansen bagged triples and had seven hits between to lead Hasbrouck Park to a decisive 19 to 10 victory over the Athletic Field. The downtown losers came up with seven runs in the sixth, after chasing eight across in the fourth.

J. Pino and Jim Jackson shared the pitching chores for the Athletic Field and yielded 15 hits. F. Turck gave up nine. The Athletic Field committed eight errors. Duffly and Jackson each had doubles.

Wiltwycks Hand Morgans Tenth Straight League Defeat, 5 to 0

Joe Albany Hurls Six-Hit Shutout

Morgan's Restaurant is flaring with a City League record. Jimmy Morgan's tossers dropped their tenth straight game, 5 to 0, to Wiltwyck Motors yesterday and they are threatening to tie or surpass the mark set up by the Colonial Merchants last season.

Joe "The Claw" Albany six-hit the Morgans into submission yesterday for one of the runny shutout performances in the twi league this season.

A trio of unearned runs and Joe Schrowang's two-run pinch hit homer accounted for Wiltwycks' margin of victory. Henry Levy and Jerry Bechtold allowed only four blows between them but Morgan's miked them judiciously with miscues and that was the story.

Albany Starts Rally

Albany launched a three-run rally in the third for Wiltwycks, reaching on an error. A single by Munson, Murray's sacrifice and successive passes to Leonard and Henberry forced in a run. Munson then achieved a clean steal of home. Later when Maxon threw wild to first trying to pick off Henberry, Leonard scored with the third tally.

Henberry walked in the fifth and Joe Schrowang clouted the ball over the right field fence in the role of pinch-hitter.

Bob Slover of Morgans and Munson of Wiltwycks were the leading sluggers with two slugs apiece.

Playoff of Protest

Prior to the start of their regularly scheduled contest this evening, Chez Emile and the Colonial Merchants will play off a protested game. The situation: Chez Emile has runners on first and third, one out, the bottom of the eighth and one strike on Sagendorf.

More Fish Than Fishermen

St. John's, N.Y. (AP)—Fish were never more plentiful in Labrador waters. Fleet captains say, but fishermen are scarce. Despite the possibility of plentiful catches

fishermen are boycotting the waters after failure to get a set price for their catch established.

Where Workers Can Play

Bloomington, Ill. (AP)—The State

Farm Insurance companies have provided a 33-acre park area for their 2,500 home office employees.

On the grounds are a lake, courts for playing tennis, volleyball, badminton and shuffleboard and pitching horseshoes, a baseball diamond, picnic tables, outdoor ovens and a club house.

Beale Sees Need For Mobilization

Sydney, Australia, July 27 (AP) Supply Minister O. H. Beale said today Australia must mobilize her industry for all-out war—even as the country began recruiting a force to fight in Korea.
Beale told a defense supply and planning committee in Melbourne that its job is to build a stockpile of needed materials to bolster the armed forces and to plan the immediate mobilization of key industries in the event of war.
Australia began recruiting a fighting unit for Korean duty this morning.

Army and Navy Minister Josiah Francis said about 100 men had applied in Sydney during the first few hours. He said most of them want to go into action immediately.
A high army officer said he thought the force the government required would be recruited within a few days.
Francis said the Australian force probably will comprise a division, but added that this would depend on Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies, who arrives today in the United States to confer with President Truman.
Since New Zealand already has announced she will provide an artillery unit, Francis said Australia's contribution probably will consist mainly of infantrymen.
A dispatch from Canberra said most of the Australian force sent to Korea would be World War II veterans so that the force could be sent to the front as soon as possible.
Francis said more Australian naval units probably will be sent to Korea also.

Doris Can Raise Pigs
Hillsborough, N. J., July 27 (AP)—Tobacco heiress Doris Duke Rubirosa can raise pigs on her model farm—but she can't feed them imported garbage. The township board of health made the ruling last night after the Duke farms manager, Rudolph F. Somers notified the municipality that she was considering plans for a model piggery on her 2,200-acre estate. There was no objection by the board to feeding the porkers on grain, but the body ruled importing swill for feed was illegal. The heiress, biggest taxpayer in the community, has announced plans for a $50,000 pigery built of concrete, air conditioned and equipped with water sprays, drains and atomizers.

Attlee Will Broadcast
London, July 27 (UP)—Prime Minister Attlee will broadcast to the nation Sunday night (3:15 p. m. E.S.T.) "Defense and the international situation."

ARMY GETS 331 POUNDS OF RECRUIT

Sgt. Lawrence Majewski (right) looks on with dismay as he uses two scales to weigh 331-pound Karol Hays, 23, of Washington, Ill., at Chicago induction center. The ordinary 300-pound scales wouldn't do the trick, so two were used and totals added. Hays, photographer for the Tazewell County Reporter, a weekly, wants to be a Signal Corps cameraman. Although he carries 120 pounds too much for his six foot, three inch frame, his enlistment was approved. (AP Wirephoto)

Ragweed Season Brings Suggestions

Ragweed begins to flower about the middle of August. Pollen from blossoming ragweed causes fall hay fever, says Dr. Robert H. Broad, health commissioner of Ulster county. Ragweed is an annual plant which grows on waste or poor land. It is usually found along the borders of roads or in vacant lots. Seeds apparently are carried by the wind for considerable distances.
Methods for eradication of ragweed are not difficult but they must be applied with judgment. Cutting ragweed before it flowers will reduce pollen in the immediate vicinity but it is no guarantee against regrowth of the plant.
Pulling and burning of the weed has not proved very practical since it must be done over a large area to show results. The use of weed killer such as 2, 4-D, a chemical compound, is satisfactory.
Spraying should be done before the pollinating season starts, usually during July. Considerable caution is required. The compound, 2, 4-D, is destructive not only to ragweed but to all other broad-leaved plants. If spraying is done indiscriminately or when there is a breeze, adjacent cultivated or garden plants may be injured. One spraying may not be sufficient to eradicate the weeds, a second or third may be necessary to destroy succeeding growths. There are five pollen collecting stations in Ulster county, Big Indian, Phoenicia, Pine Hill, Minerva and Zena. These same stations in 1949 indicated that three of these areas were practically free from ragweed pollen, with the other two covering a moderately free area. This is not proof against the presence of ragweed pollen this year, Dr. Broad warned. So check your own property to be sure weeds are destroyed.
